

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. THIS Grammar is intended to give such information as is necessary for starting a learner in Latin. The troublesome nomenclature common to many School Grammars is as far as possible avoided; and a Short Catechism of Syntax takes the place of the usual Latin Rules.

In the treatment of Latin Accidence the beaten tracks pointed out by immemorial usage have been generally adhered to. The principal change is the subdivision of the Perfect into two separate Tenses, conformably to its twofold usage, (a) as a Present Past, (b) as a Simple Past. This alteration will compel every boy who meets with a Perfect to stop, if only as part of his parsing lesson, and reflect which Tense is meant. It also enables us to group the Tenses in the paradigm under the heads of Primary and Historic, a distinction important for boys to remember.

The principle of teaching by frequent repetition is adhered to throughout. A special aim of the work has been to impart a practical acquaintance with Latin Syntax by means of classified examples rather than a multitude of rules. All or nearly all the possible meanings of each Tense are given once at least with the paradigm of every Verb. To each Conjugation notes are appended explanatory of certain difficulties; among them are included short rules for the translation of the Accusative and Infinitive, and Ablative Absolute.

The Author's best thanks are due to his friends, Henry St. John Reade, Head Master of the Godolphin School, Hammersmith, and Michael Seymour Forster, Head Master of Oswestry Grammar School, who have revised the proof sheets and offered many valuable suggestions. He has also to express his obligations to many of the School Manuals now in use, to which he is indebted for hints on several points of detail. A few rules have been quoted verbatim, and acknowledged in their proper place.

Corrections and suggestions of improvements in the work will be thankfully received.

LATIN GRAMMAR.

ALPHABET AND PARTS OF SPEECH.

§ 1. Alphabet. The Latin Alphabet is the same as the English, without W. For the pronunciation, see Appendix, p. 165.

§ 2. Divisions of Letters. The letters are divided into
(1.) Vowels: a, e, i, o, u, y.
(2.) Consonants: the remaining letters.

§ 3. Diphthongs. The diphthongs are, ae (æ), oe (œ), and au¹.

§ 4. Quantity of Syllables. Syllables in Latin are always said to have a certain quantity,—that is, they are either long, short, or doubtful. The sign - indicates a long, ~ a short, and * a doubtful syllable.

§ 5. Parts of Speech. There are eight Parts of Speech, namely, the Noun-Substantive, Noun-Adjective, Pro-noun, Verb, Ad-verb, Preposition, Conjunction, and Interjection.

The Noun-Substantive is the name of any thing, as, magister, a master.

The Noun-Adjective expresses a quality, as, bonus, good.

The Pro-noun is used instead of a Substantive or Adjective, as, ille, he; meus, my.

¹ ei, eu, and ui are found as diphthongs in Interjections, as hei, heu; and in a few other words, as neuter, huic, cui, etc.

The Verb expresses an action, as, amo, I love; or a condition, as, amor, I am loved.

The Ad-verb modifies the meaning of a Verb, Adjective, or Participle¹, as bene scribit, he writes well; longè nobilissimus, by far the noblest; vix adultus, scarcely grown up.

The Preposition is used with Nouns, to express their relation to each other, as lupus inter oves, a wolf among sheep.

The Conjunction connects words or sentences together, as, et, and.

The Interjection is an exclamation, as, heu, alas!

§ 6. Another Division. These eight Parts of Speech are sometimes included under three heads, namely,

- (1.) The Noun, including Noun-Substantive, Noun-Adjective, and Pronoun.
- (2.) The Verb.
- (3.) The Particle, including Adverb, Preposition, Conjunction, and Interjection.

§ 7. Absence of the Article. There is no Article, a, an, or the, in Latin. Thus bellum may mean war, a war, or the war.

THE NOUN.

§ 8. Flexion. Many Prepositions, as of, for, from, by, may be expressed in Latin not by a separate word, as in English, but by altering the last syllable of the Noun. Thus, a table is mens-a, of a table is mens-æ. Differences of Number and Gender are also expressed by terminations.

These changes made at the end of a Noun in order to vary its meaning are called its Flexion or Inflexion.

¹ Or even of a Substantive, as admodum puella, quite a girl. One Adverb may also modify another, as satis diu, long enough.

§ 9. Stem. The Stem of a Noun is that part of the word to which the flexional changes are added.

§ 10. Declension. Substantives have five different kinds of Flexion, which are called the five Declensions.

§ 11. Number. There are two Numbers, the Singular, which speaks of one; the Plural, which speaks of more than one.

§ 12. Gender. There are three Genders, the Masculine, Feminine, and Neuter.

§ 13. Cases. There are six Cases, the Nominative, Vocative, Accusative, Genitive, Dative, and Ablative.

The Nominative Case stands as Subject to the Verb, as, magister docet, the master teaches.

The Vocative is the Case of one addressed, as, amice, O friend.

The Accusative stands as Object to the Verb, or is governed by a Preposition, as, puerum docuit, he taught the boy; eo ad magistrum, I go to the master.

The Genitive is known by the sign of, or the apostrophe s, as, *muri, of a wall; domini, a lord's, or of a lord*¹.

The Dative is known by the signs to or for, as, domino, to or for a lord.

The Ablative is known by the signs in, with, from, or by, and is often governed by Prepositions, as, manu, in, with, from, or by, a hand; e portu navigo, I sail from the harbour. Also the word of, and than after a Comparative Adjective, are sometimes signs of the Ablative Case.

§ 14. Direct and Oblique Cases. The Nominative is called the Direct Case, the others the Oblique Cases.

SUBSTANTIVES.

§ 15. The five Declensions. The five Declensions of Substantives are known by the endings of their Genitive Case Singular.

The first Declension has Gen. Sing. in -ae.

The second Declension has Gen. Sing. in -i.

The third Declension has Gen. Sing. in -is.

The fourth Declension has Gen. Sing. in -ūs.

The fifth Declension has Gen. Sing. in -ei.

§ 16. THE FIRST DECLENSION.

Nominative. The Nominative Case ends in -a.

Gender. Feminine; except a few names of men, as, Publicola, Publicola, or designations of men, as, poeta, a poet, which are masculine.

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
Nom. Mens a , a table .	Mens- ae , tables .
Voc. Mens- a , O table .	Mens- ae , O tables .
Acc. Mens- am , a table .	Mens- as , tables .
Gen. Mens- ae , of a table .	Mens- arum , of tables .
Dat. Mens- ae , to, or for a table .	Mens- is , to or for tables .
Abl. Mens- ā , by, with, or from a table .	Mens- is , by, with, or from tables .

Note on the signs of the Dative. The word to, when it implies motion to, is not a sign of the Dative, but is translated by the Prepositions ad or in with the Accusative, or by the Accusative alone if the Substantive be the name of a town or small island.

Note on the signs of the Ablative. If the Substantive means a living thing (as magister, puer, iudex, animal, pp. 5, 7, 8), the words by, with, or from are translated by Prepositions governing the Ablative. By is translated by a (or ab, before a Vowel), with by cum, and from by a (ab) or e (ex).

§ 17. THE SECOND DECLENSION.

Nominative. The Nominative ends in -us, -er, and -um.

Gender. -us and -er generally Masculine, -um Neuter.

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
Nom. Murus, a wall.	Mur-i, walls.
Voc. Mur-e, O wall.	Mur-i, O walls.
Acc. Mur-um, a wall.	Mur-os, walls.
Gen. Mur-i, of a wall.	Mur-orum, of walls.
Dat. Mur-o, to or for a wall.	Mur-is, to or for walls.
Abl. Mur-o, by, with, or from a wall.	Mur-is, by, with, or from walls.

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
Nom. Magister, a master.	Magistr-i, masters.
Voc. Magister, O master.	Magistr-i, O masters.
Acc. Magistr-um, a master.	Magistr-os, masters.
Gen. Magistr-i, a master's, or of a master.	Magistr-orum, of masters.
Dat. Magistr-o, to or for a master.	Magistr-is, to or for masters.
Abl. Magistr-o, by, with, or from a master.	Magistr-is, by, with, or from masters.

Note. Some Nouns in -er preserve the e through all the Oblique Cases, instead of dropping it, as, puer, a boy.

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
Nom. Puer, a boy.	Puer-i, boys.
Voc. Puer, O boy.	Puer-i, O boys.
Acc. Puer-um, a boy.	Puer-os, boys.
Gen. Puer-i, a boy's, or of a boy.	Puer-orum, of boys.
Dat. Puer-o, to or for a boy.	Puer-is, to or for boys.
Abl. Puer-o, by, with, or from a boy.	Puer-is, by, with, or from boys.

Like 'puer' are declined,—gener, sacer, vesper, Liber, presbyter, and compounds of gero and fero, as, armiger¹.

	SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
N.V.A.	Bellum, war , or O war .	Bell- a , wars , or O wars .
Gen.	Bell- i , of war .	Bell- orum , of wars .
Dat.	Bell- o , to or for war .	Bell- is , to or for wars .
Abl.	Bell- o , by , with , or from war .	Bell- is , by , with , or from wars .

Note on Neuter Nouns. The Nominative, Accusative, and Vocative Cases of all Neuter Nouns are the same in their respective numbers, and in the Plural they always end in -a.

Note on the Vocative of the Second Declension. Filius, a son, and names of men ending in -ius, make -i in the Vocative; as, fili, Virgili. Deus, God, has Voc. Deus.

§ 18. THE THIRD DECLENSION.

Nominative. The Nominative ends in a, e, o, c, l, n, r, s, t, and x.

Gender. Various.

Divisions. There are two divisions of Nouns of the Third Declension, namely,

- (1.) Nouns which have -um in the Genitive Plural, and usually increase in the Oblique Cases; that is, have more syllables in the Oblique Cases than in the Nominative.
- (2.) Nouns which have -ium in the Genitive Plural, and do not usually increase in the Oblique Cases.

Nouns in -um.1. Masculine or Feminine.

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
N.V. Iudex , a judge , or O judge . Iudic-es , judges , or O judges .
Acc. Iudic-em , a judge .	Iudic-es , judges .
Gen. Iudic-is , a judge's , or of a judge .	Iudic-um , of judges .
Dat. Iudic-i , to or for a judge .	Iudic-ibus , to or for judges .
Abl. Iudic-e , by , with , or from a judge ¹ .	Iudic-ibus , by , with , or from judges .

2. Neuter.

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
N.A. Opus , a work .	Oper-a , works .
Voc. Opus , O work .	Oper-a , O works .
Gen. Opér-is , of a work .	Oper-um , of works .
Dat. Oper-i , to or for a work .	Oper-ibus , to or for works .
Abl. Oper-e , by , with , or from a work .	Oper-ibus , by , with , or from works .

Nouns in -ium.1. Masculine or Feminine.

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
N.V. Nubes , a cloud , or O cloud .	Nub-es , clouds , or O clouds .
Acc. Nub-em , a cloud .	Nub-es , clouds .
Gen. Nub-is , of a cloud .	Nub-um , of clouds .
Dat. Nub-i , to or for a cloud .	Nub-ibus , to or for clouds .
Abl. Nub-e , by , with , or from a cloud .	Nub-ibus , by , with , or from clouds .

2. Neuter.

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
N.A. Animal, an animal .	Animal-ia, animals .
Voc. Animal, O animal .	Animal-ia, O animals .
Gen. Animal-is, an animal's , or of an animal .	Animal-iūm, of animals .
Dat. Animal-i, to or for an animal .	Animal-ibūs, to or for animals .
Abl. Animal-i, by , with , or from an animal ¹ .	Animal-ibūs, by , with , or from animals ¹ .

§ 19. THE FOURTH DECLENSION.

Nominative. The Nominative ends in -us and -u.

Gender. -us generally Masculine, -u Neuter.

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
N.V. Gradūs, a step , or O step .	Grad-ūs, steps , or O steps .
Acc. Grad-um, a step .	Grad-ūs, steps .
Gen. Grad-ūs, of a step .	Grad-uūm, of steps .
Dat. Grad-ui or -u, to or for a step .	Grad-ibūs, to or for steps .
Abl. Grad-u, by , with , or from a step .	Grad-ibūs, by , with , or from steps .

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
N.A. Genu, a knee .	Gen-us, knees .
Voc. Genu, O knee .	Gen-us, O knees .
Gen. Gen-ūs, of a knee .	Gen-uūm, of knees .
D.A. Gen-u, to , for , by , with , or from a knee .	Gen-ibūs, to , for , by , with , or from knees .

Note on the Dative and Ablative Plural. The Dative and Ablative Plural of the Fourth Declension are sometimes written -ubus instead of -ibus.

§ 20. THE FIFTH DECLENSION.

Nominative. The Nominative ends in -es.

Gender. Feminine, except dies, a day, which is Common (i.e. both Masculine and Feminine) in the Singular, Masculine in the Plural.

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
N.V. Dies, a day , or O day .	Di-es, days , or O days .
Acc. Di-em, a day .	Di-es, days .
Gen. Di-ēi, of a day .	Di-ērum, of days .
Dat. Di-ei, to or for a day .	Di-ebus, to or for days .
Abl. Di-e, by, with, or from a day .	Di-ebus, by, with, or from days .

§ 21. Additional Rules of Gender.

- (1.) Names of Men, Months, Winds, People, Mountains, and Rivers are Masculine.
- (2.) Names of Women, Countries, Cities, Islands and Plants are Feminine.
- (3.) Indeclinable Nouns are Neuter.

§ 22. ADJECTIVES.

Adjectives are divided into two classes, the First Class being inflected like the First and Second Declensions, and the Second Class like the Third Declension, of Nouns Substantive.

§ 23. Adjectives of the First Class. Adjectives of the First Class have three terminations to each Case, denoting the Masculine, Feminine, and Neuter Gender, as, bonus, bona, bonum, good; pulcher, pulchra, pulchrum, beautiful. The Masculine and Neuter terminations are inflected like the Second Declension of Substantives, the Feminine like the First.

SINGULAR.				PLURAL.
M.	F.	N.	M.	F.	N.
Nom. Bonus,	-a,	-um.	Bon-i,	-ae,	-a.
Voc. Bon-e,	-a,	-um.	Bon-i,	-ae,	-a.
Acc. Bon-um,	-am,	-um.	Bon-os,	-as,	-a.
Gen. Bon-i,	-ae,	-i.	Bon-orum,	-arum,	-orum.
Dat. Bon-o,	-ae,	-o.	Bon-is,	-is,	-is.
Abl. Bon-o,	-a,	-o.	Bon-is,	-is,	-is.

Note. Adjectives must always belong to some Substantive, as, bonus rex, a good king. When the Substantive is omitted, the word man must be understood with Masculine Adjectives, woman (less commonly) with Feminines, and thing with Neuters; as, boni, good men; bona, good things, goods.

SINGULAR.				PLURAL.
M.	F.	N.	M.	F.	N.
N.V. Pulcher,	-a,	-um.	Pulchr-i,	-ae,	-a.

Dat. Pulchr-o,	-ae,	-o.	Pulchr-is,	-is,	-is.
Abl. Pulchr-o,	-a,	-o.	Pulchr-is,	-is,	-is.

Note. Some Adjectives in -er preserve the e throughout, instead of dropping it, as tener, tenera, tenerum, tender.

SINGULAR.				PLURAL.
M.	F.	N.	M.	F.	N.
N.V. Tener,	-a,	-um.	Tener-i,	-ae,	-a.
Acc. Tener-um,	-am,	-um.	Tener-os,	-as,	-a.
Gen. Tener-i,	-ae,	-i.	Tener-orum,	-arum,	-orum.
Dat. Tener-o,	-ae,	-o.	Tener-is,	-is,	-is.
Abl. Tener-o,	-a,	-o.	Tener-is,	-is,	-is.

Like 'tener' are declined—lacer, liber, asper, miser, and compounds of gero and fero, as corniger, frugifer¹.

¹ Torn, free, rough, miserable, horn-bearing, fruit-bearing.

§ 24. Adjectives of the Second Class. Adjectives of the Second Class are inflected like the Third Declension of Substantives; as, tristis, sad; melior, better; felix, happy; ingens, vast.

SINGULAR.			PLURAL.
M.	F.	N.	M.	F.	N.
N.V. Tristis ,		triste .		Trist-es ,	trist-ia .

N.V. Felix .				Felic-es ,	felic-ia .
Acc. Felic-em ,		felix .
Gen. Felic-is .				Felic-ium .
Dat. Felic-i .				Felic-ibus .
Abl. Felic-i (rarely -e).
N.V. Ingens .				Ingent-es ,	ingent-ia .
Acc. Ingent-em ,		ingens .
Gen. Ingent-is .				Ingent-ium .
Dat. Ingent-i .				Ingent-ibus .
Abl. Ingent-e (or -i).

Some Adjectives in -er belong to this class, as, acer, keen.

SINGULAR.			PLURAL.
M.	F.	N.	M.	F.	N.
N.V. Acer ,	acr-is ,	acr-e .	Acr-es ,	-es ,	-ia .
Acc. Acr-em ,	-em ,	-e .	Acr-es ,	-es ,	-ia .
Gen. Acr-is ,	-is ,	-is .	Acr-ium ,	-ium ,	-ium .
D.A. Acr-i ,	-i ,	-i .	Acr-ibus ,	-ibus ,	-ibus .

Like 'acer' are declined,—aläcer, celëber, equester, pedestrian, volücer, salüber, celer, and a few others¹. Celer keeps the e throughout, as, Sing. N.V. Celer, celëris, celëre.

§ 25. Numeral and Pronominal Adjectives. These for the most part make Gen. Sing. in -ius, and the Dat. in -i; as, unus, one; alius, another; uter, which of two.

The Adjectives which make -ius in Gen. Sing. and -i in Dat. are :

Unus, solus, totus, ullus,
Uter, alter, neuter, nullus²;

with alius, another, and compounds of uter, as uterque, each of two, the suffix -que being added to each of the cases, as, Sing. Nom. uterque, utraque, utrumque. Those in -us are declined like unus, those in -er like uter. But alter keeps the e throughout, instead of dropping it, as Sing. N. alter, altēra, altērum.

² One, alone, the whole, any, which of two, the other or one of two, neither, none.

Unus is only used in the Plural when it agrees with a Noun which has no Singular, as, una castra, one camp.

The Numerals duo, two, and tres, three, are thus declined :

PLURAL.		PLURAL.
M.	F.	N.	M.F.
Nom. Duo ,	duae ,	duo .	Tres , tria .
Acc. Du-os or duo ,	du-as ,	duo .	Tres , tria .
Gen. Du-orum ,	du-arum ,	du-orum .	Tr-ium .
D.Ab. Du-obus ,	du-abus ,	du-obus .	Tri-bus .

Ambo, both, is declined like duo.

The other Cardinal Numbers, from quattuor, four, to centum, a hundred, are indeclinable.

§ 26. COMPARISON OF ADJECTIVES.

Adjectives have three degrees of Comparison, the Positive, Comparative, and Superlative.

§ 27. Rule for Comparison of Adjectives. The Comparative is formed from the Positive by changing -i or -is of the Genitive into -ior.

The Superlative is formed from the Positive by changing -i or -is of the Genitive into -issimus.

Examples :

Positive.	Comparative.	Superlative.
Durus , hard , G. duri ,	durior , harder ,	durissimus , hardest , or very hard .
Brevis , short , G. brevis ,	brevior , shorter ,	brevissimus , shortest , or very short .
Audax , bold , G. audacis ,	audacior , bolder ,	audacissimus , boldest , or very bold .

§ 28. Exceptions. There are several exceptions to the above rule :

- (1) Adjectives in -er. Adjectives in -er form their Comparatives according to the rule, but form their Superlatives from the Nominative Masculine Singular of the Positive by adding -rimus, as, pulcher, beautiful, Gen. pulchri, Comparative pulchrior, more beautiful, Superlative pulcherrimus, most beautiful or very beautiful.
- (2) Six Adjectives in -ilis. Six Adjectives in -ilis,—facilis, difficilis, similis, dissimilis, gracilis, and humilis¹,—form their Superlative by changing -is of the Genitive into -limus, as, facilis, easy, facillimus. Other Adjectives in -ilis have commonly no Superlative.
- (3) Adjectives in -us preceded by a Vowel. If a vowel comes before -us in the Nominative, the comparison is generally made by the Adverbs magis, more, and maxime, most, as, idoneus, useful, magis idoneus, more useful, maxime idoneus, most useful or very useful.
- (4) Adjectives in -dicus, -ficus, and -vōlus. Adjectives ending in -dicus, -ficus, and -vōlus, make -entior, -entissimus in the Comparative and Superlative, as, malevol-us, spiteful, malevol-entior, malevol-entissimus.

§ 29. Irregular Comparison. Many Adjectives are compared irregularly, as :

Positive.	Comparative.	Superlative.
Bonus, good ,	melior,	optimus.
Malus, bad ,	peior,	pessimus.
Magnus, great ,	maior,	maximus.
Parvus, small ,	minor,	minimus.
Multus, much ,	plus,	plurimus.
Nequam, worthless ,	nequior,	nequissimus.

Four Adjectives derived from Prepositions have a double Superlative :

Preposition.	Positive Adjective.	Comparative.	Superlative.
Extra, outside,	ext̄erus, outward,	exterior,	extr̄ēmus and ext̄imus.
Infra, beneath,	inf̄erus, low,	inferior,	inf̄imus and īmus.
Supra, above,	sup̄erus, bigb,	superior,	supr̄ēmus and summus.
Post, after,	post̄erus, next after,	posterior,	postr̄ēmus and postūmus.

Six Adjectives derived from Prepositions have no Positive :

Preposition.	Comparative Adj.	Superlative.
Citra, on this side,	cit̄erior,	citimus.
De, from,	det̄erior (less good),	deterrimus.
Intra, within,	int̄erior,	intimus.
Prae, before,	prior (former),	pr̄imus (first).
Prope, near,	propior,	proximus.
Ultra, beyond,	ult̄erior,	ultimus (last).

Other irregular comparisons worthy of notice are :

Positive.	Comparative.	Superlative.
Dives, rich,	ditior,	ditissimus.
Senex, old,	senior,	[natu maximus].
Iuvēnis, young,	iunior,	[natu minimus].
Dexter, on the right } hand,	dexterior,	dext̄imus.
Sacer, sacred,		sacerrimus.
Vetus, old,		veterrimus.

§ 30. Comparison of Adverbs. Adverbs derived from Adjectives usually make -ius in the Comparative, and -issime in the Superlative, as :

Digne, worthily,	dignius,	dignissime.
Grav̄iter, heavily,	gravius,	gravissime.

PRONOUNS.

Pronouns are of eight kinds, viz. Personal, Reflexive, Possessive, Demonstrative, Definitive, Relative, Interrogative, and Indefinite.

§ 32. Personal Pronouns. The Personal Pronouns are ego, I, and tu, thou, which are thus declined:

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
Nom. Ego, I.	Nos, we.
Acc. Me, me.	Nos, us.
Gen. Mei, of me.	Nostrum or Nostri, of us.
Dat. Mihi, to or for me.	Nobis, to or for us.
Abl. Me, by, with, or from me.	Nobis, by, with, or from us.
N. V. Tu, thou.	Vos, ye or you.
Acc. Te, thee.	Vos, you.
Gen. Tui, of thee.	Vestrum or Vestri, of you.
Dat. Tibi, to or for thee.	Vobis, to or for you.
Abl. Te, by, with, or from thee.	Vobis, by, with, or from you.

Note. *Ille, illa, illud, and is, ea, id, are often used as Personal Pronouns, and translated he, she, it.*

§ 33. Reflexive Pronoun. The Reflexive Pronoun is se, himself, herself, itself, or themselves.

Nom. (wanting).

Acc. Se or sese, himself, herself, itself, or themselves.

Gen. Sui, of himself, herself, itself, themselves.

Dat. Sibi, to or for himself, herself, itself, themselves.

Abl. Se or sese, by, with, or from himself, herself, itself, themselves.

§ 34. Possessive Pronouns. The Possessive Pronouns are meus, my, tuus, thy, suus, his own, her own, its own, or their own, and cuius, whose, which are declined like bonus; noster, our, and vester, your, which are declined like pulcher.

Note. Meus has mi in the Vocative Singular Masculine. Tuus and suus have no Vocative.

§ 35. Demonstrative Pronouns. The Demonstrative Pronouns are hic, this, is, that, ille, that, iste, that.

SINGULAR.			PLURAL.
M.	F.	N.	M.	F.	N.
Nom. Hic ,	haec,	hoc.	Hi,	hae,	haec.
Acc. Hunc ,	hanc,	hoc.	Hos,	has,	haec.
Gen. Huius ,	huius,	huius.	Horum,	harum,	horum.
Dat. Huic ,	huic,	huic.	His,	his,	his.
Abl. Hoc ,	hac,	hoc.	His,	his,	his.
Nom. Is ,	ea,	id.	Ii or ei,	eae,	ea.
Acc. Eum ,	eam,	id.	Eos,	eas,	ea.
Gen. Eius ,	eius,	eius.	Eorum,	earum,	eorum.
Dat. Ei ,	ei,	ei.	Iis or eis,	iis or eis,	iis or eis.
Abl. Eo ,	eā,	eo.	Iis or eis,	iis or eis,	iis or eis.
Nom. Ille ,	illa,	illud.	Illi,	illae,	illa.
Acc. Illum ,	illam,	illud.	Illos,	illas,	illa.
Gen. Illius ,	illius,	illius.	Illorum,	ilarum,	illorum.
Dat. Illi ,	illi,	illi.	Illis,	illis,	illis.
Abl. Illo ,	illā,	illo.	Illis,	illis,	illis.

Iste is declined like ille.

Note. Hic means this near me, iste, that near you, and ille, that yonder or that other.

§ 36. Definitive Pronouns. The Definitive Pronouns are idem, the same, and ipse, self.

SINGULAR.			PLURAL.
M.	F.	N.	M.	F.	N.
N. Idem ,	eādem,	īdem.	īdem,	eaedem,	eādem.
A. Eundem ,	eādem,	īdem.	Eosdem,	easdem,	eādem.
G. Eiusdem ,	eiusdem,	eiusdem.	Eorundem,	earundem,	eorundem.
D. Eidem ,	eidem,	eidem.	īsdem,	iisdem,	iisdem.
A. Eodem ,	eādem,	eodem.	īsdem,	iisdem,	iisdem.

Ipse is declined like ille, except that it makes ipsum in the Neuter Nom. and Acc.

§ 37. Relative Pronoun. The Relative Pronoun is qui, who or which.

SINGULAR.			PLURAL.
M.	F.	N.	M.	F.	N.
Nom. Qui ,	quaे ,	quod .	Qui ,	quaे ,	quaе .
Acc. Quem ,	quam ,	quod .	Quos ,	quas ,	quaе .
Gen. Cuius ,	cuius ,	cuius .	Quorum ,	quarum ,	quorum .
Dat. Cui ,	cui ,	cui .		Quibus or queis.
Abl. Quo ,	qua ,	quo .		Quibus or queis.

§ 38. Interrogative Pronoun. The Interrogative Pronoun is quis, (quis), quid, who? or what? It is declined in the Oblique Cases like qui, except that it makes quid instead of quod in the Neuter. If it agrees with a Substantive the form is sometimes qui, quaे, quod, declined exactly like qui.

§ 39. Indefinite Pronoun. The Indefinite Pronoun is quis, (qua), quid, any. It is declined in the Oblique Cases like qui, except that it makes quid instead of quod in the Neuter Singular, and qua or quaе in the Neuter Plural. If it agrees with a Substantive the form is sometimes qui, quaе, quod, declined exactly like the Relative qui, except Neuter Plural qua or quaе.

THE VERB.

§ 40. Voice. Verbs have two Voices, the Active, as, amo, I love; the Passive, as, amor, I am loved.

§ 41. Transitive and Intransitive Verbs. Transitive Verbs are those in which the action passes on to an Object, as, amo te, I love thee. Intransitive or Neuter Verbs are those in which the action does not pass on to an Object, as, sto, I stand. These latter have no Passive Voice¹.

¹ Except in what is called the Impersonal Passive Construction, as, statur, it is stood, or a stand is made.

§ 42. Deponents. Deponent Verbs are Passive in form but Active in meaning, as, hortor, I exhort.

§ 43. Moods. There are four Moods, the Indicative, Subjunctive, Imperative, and Infinitive. The three first constitute the Verb Finite, the last the Verb Infinite.

§ 44. Tenses. There are Seven Tenses, the Present, Future Simple, Perfect, Future Perfect; Imperfect, Simple Past, and Pluperfect. Of these the four first are called Primary, the last three Historic, Tenses.

§ 45. Number and Person. There are in each Tense two Numbers, Singular and Plural, and in each Number three Persons, First, Second, and Third.

§ 46. Conjugation. Verbs have four different kinds of Flexion, which are called the Four Conjugations.

The First ends in -āre in the Infin. Mood, as, amāre, to love.

The Second in -ēre in the Infin. Mood, as, monēre, to advise.

The Third in -ēre in the Infin. Mood, as, regēre, to rule.

The Fourth in -ire in the Infin. Mood, as, audire, to hear.

§ 47. Principal Parts of the Verb. The parts of the Verb from which all the other Tenses are derived are the Present, Perfect, and Supine in -um. These, together with the Infinitive Mood, are to be named when the principal parts of a Verb are required, e.g.:

	Pres. Indic.	Infinitive.	Perfect Indic.	Supine.
1st Conj.	Amo,	amāre,	amavi,	amātum.
2nd Conj.	Moneo,	monēre,	monui,	monītum.
3rd Conj.	Rego,	regēre,	rexi,	rectum.
4th Conj.	Audio,	audire,	audi vi,	audītum.

§ 48. The Verb Sum, Esse, Fui, to be. Before other Verbs are conjugated it is necessary to learn the Auxiliary Verb sum, esse, fui, to be.

Note on the Verb Sum. Sum is called auxiliary (i.e. helping) because, like the Verb to be in English, it is joined with participles to form many tenses, especially in the Passive Voice of Verbs, as, amatus sum, I have been loved.

Note on the Compounds of Sum. Like sum are declined its compounds, *absum, adsum, desum, insum, intersum, obsum, praesum, prosum, subsum, supersum*¹. Insum and subsum want the perfect, and tenses derived from it. Prosuum inserts d before e, as Ind. Pres. prosum, prodes, prodest, prosūmus, prodestis, prosunt. Possuum [for potis-sum], to be able, will be fully conjugated hereafter (see p. 80). Absum and praesum alone have Present Participles, absens and praesens.

Note on some Irregular forms of Sum. Fuam, fuas, fuat, and siem, sies, siet, are found in poetry for sim, sis, sit. Escit and escunt are old forms for erit and erunt.

Note on the Periphrastic Conjugation. Future Participles, as futurus, united with the Verb Sum form a separate Conjugation, as futurus sum, eram, fui, fueram, sim, essem, etc. This is called the Periphrastic Conjugation.

Note on the Accusative and Infinitive. After Impersonal Verbs and Verbs of declaring, perceiving, or thinking, the construction called the Accusative and Infinitive is frequently found. The rule for translating it is: construe the Accusative as if it were a Nominative, and the Infinitive as if it were a Finite Verb, and prefix the word that, as, Constat Deum esse bonum, It is well known that God is good.

¹ Be absent, be present, be wanting, be in, be between, be against, be before, benefit, be under, be over.

VERB INFINITE.

Primary Tense.	am-āre, loving, or to love. It means literally 'the act of loving.'	am-āre, loving. (Used after Prepositions governing the Accusative.)
		am-andū, loved.	am-andū, of loving.
Present.	am-ādo, to love.	am-ando, for or by loving.
		am-ātūm, to love.	am-ātūm, after verbs of motion.
Imitative Mood.	am-ātūrūs, to be about to love.	am-ātūrūs, being about to love.
		am-ātūrūs, amāvīt.	am-ātūrūs, amāvīt.

Note on do and did. These Old English signs of the Present and Simple Past are now chiefly used in the Negative and Interrogative forms, as, I do not love, I did not love; do I love? did I love? etc.

Note on the Imperfect Indicative. The translation I loved can only be used of amabam when it means, I was loving at the time.

Note on the Finite Verb. The Pronouns, he, she, it, and they, are implied in the endings of the Third Person, as, amat, he loves; but if a Noun is supplied as Subject to the Verb, the Pronoun is omitted in translation, as, Caesar amat, Caesar loves, not Caesar he loves.

Note on Impersonal Verbs. Verbs in the Third Person Singular which have the word it for their apparent Nominative in English are called Impersonal Verbs, as, constat, it is well known.

Note on the Subjunctive Mood. The Subjunctive Mood is known generally by the signs may, may have, should, should have; but in dependent sentences, and when governed by certain Conjunctions, it must often be construed as an Indicative; as, Quum amavissem, When I had loved.

Note on the Accusative and Infinitive. After Impersonal Verbs, and Verbs of declaring, perceiving, or thinking, the construction called the Accusative and Infinitive is frequently found. The rule for translating it is;—construe the Accusative as if it were a Nominative, and the Infinitive as if it were a Finite Verb, and prefix the word that; as, Constat Caesarem amare, It is well known that Caesar loves.

Note on the Infinitive Simple Past. This tense only occurs in the Accusative and Infinitive Construction. It is rendered by amavisse or amare; by amavisse if the governing Verb is a Primary tense, by amare if it is Historic.

Note on the termination in -ing. The word lov-ing is (1) the Old English Infinitive lov-en, to love, and is used to translate the Infinitive Mood and Gerunds, and means ‘the act of loving,’ and is therefore a Substantive; but (2) as a translation of the Participle amans it is used Adjectively, and must always agree with some Substantive or Pronoun.

Note on the Ablative Absolute. This usually consists of a Noun and a Participle, both in the Ablative Case, but is construed without any Ablative Sign, as, Caesarec amaturo, Caesar being about to love.

The meaning ' having ruled ' may be rendered by quoniam with Perfect or Pluperfect Subjunctive, as, quoniam rexerit or rexisset.
PLUPERF. rex-īsse, to have ruled.	PERFECT, reg-ētus, ruled.
SIMPLE PAST, recītūrus esse, to be about to rule.	Simple Past, rex-ītus, wanted.
FUTURE, recītūrus, being about to rule.	FUTURE, reg-ētūrus, will rule.
Imitative Mood.

Note on do and did. These Old English signs of the Present and Simple Past are now chiefly used in the Negative and Interrogative forms, as, I do not rule, I did not rule; do I rule? did I rule, etc.

Note on the Imperfect Indicative. The translation I ruled can only be used of regebam when it means, I was ruling at the time.

Note on the Finite Verb. The Pronouns, he, she, it, and they, are implied in the endings of the Third Person, as, reget, he will rule; but if a Noun is supplied as Subject to the Verb, the Pronoun is omitted in translation, as, Caesar reget, Caesar will rule, not, Caesar he will rule.

Note on Impersonal Verbs. Verbs in the Third Person Singular, which have the word it for their apparent Nominative in English, are called Impersonal Verbs, as, oportet, it is necessary.

Note on the Subjunctive Mood. The Subjunctive Mood is known generally by the signs may, may have, should, should have; but in dependent sentences, and when governed by certain Conjunctions, it must often be construed as an Indicative, as, Tam potens est Deus ut omnia regat, God is so powerful that he rules all things.

Note on the Accusative and Infinitive. After Impersonal Verbs, and Verbs of declaring, perceiving, or thinking, the construction called the Accusative and Infinitive is frequently found. The rule for translating it is:—construe the Accusative as if it were a Nominative, and the Infinitive as if it were a Finite Verb, and prefix the word that, as, Dicit Caesarem recturum esse, He says that Caesar will rule.

Note on the Infinitive Simple Past. This Tense only occurs in the Accusative and Infinitive construction. It is rendered by rexisse or regerere; by rexisse if the governing Verb is a Primary Tense, by regerere if it is Historic.

Note on the Termination in -ing. The word rul-ing is (1) the old Infinitive rul-en, to rule, and is used to translate the Infinitive Mood and Gerunds, and means ‘the act of ruling,’ and is therefore a Substantive; but (2) as a translation of the Participle regens it is used Adjectively, and must always agree with some Substantive or Pronoun.

Note on the Ablative Absolute. This usually consists of a Noun and a Participle both in the Ablative Case, but is construed without any Ablative sign, as, Caesare recturo, Caesar being about to rule.

Note on do and did. These Old English signs of the Present and Simple Past are now chiefly used in the Negative and Interrogative forms, as, I do not hear, I did not hear; do I hear? did I hear? etc.

Note on the Imperfect Indicative. The translation I heard can only be used of audiebam when it means, I was hearing at the time.

Note on the Finite Verb. The Pronouns he, she, it, and they, are implied in the endings of the Third Person, as, audivit, He heard; but if a Noun is supplied as Subject to the Verb, the Pronoun is omitted in translation, as, Caesar audivit, Caesar heard, not, Caesar he heard.

Note on Impersonal Verbs. Verbs in the Third Person Singular, which have the word it for their apparent Nominative in English, are called Impersonal Verbs, as, convénit, it suits.

Note on the Subjunctive Mood. The Subjunctive Mood is known generally by the signs may, may have, should, should have; but in dependent sentences, and when governed by certain Conjunctions, it must often be construed as an Indicative, as, Quum audivissem, When I had heard.

Note on the Accusative and Infinitive. After Impersonal Verbs, and Verbs of declaring, perceiving, or thinking, the construction called the Accusative and Infinitive is frequently found. The rule for translating it is:—construe the Accusative as if it were a Nominative, and the Infinitive as if it were a Finite Verb, and prefix the word that, as, Sentit Caesarem audisse, He perceives that Caesar has heard.

Note on the Infinitive Simple Past. This tense only occurs in the Accusative and Infinitive construction. It is rendered by audivisse or audire; by audivisse if the governing Verb is a Primary Tense, by audire if it is Historic.

Note on the Termination in -ing. The word hear-ing is (1) the old Infinitive hear-en, to hear, and is used to translate the Infinitive Mood and Gerunds, and means 'the act of hearing,' and is therefore a Substantive; but (2) as a translation of the Participle, audiens, it is used Adjectivally, and must always agree with some Substantive or Pronoun.

Note on the Ablative Absolute. This usually consists of a Noun and a Participle, both in the Ablative Case, but is construed without any Ablative sign, as, Caesare audiente, Caesar hearing.

2 p. S.	am-ētūr, am-ātor, let him be loved.	PERFECT AND PLUPERFECT, amātus, having been loved.
3 p. S.		SIMPLE-PAST, (wanting), amātum iri, to be about to be loved.
		FUTURE, amātūr, (wanting).
		Participles.
1 p. Pl.	am-ēmūr, let us be loved.	PRESENT, (wanting). The meaning 'whilst being loved'
2 p. Pl.	am-āmīni, am-āmīnor, be ye loved.	may be rendered by am with Pres.
3 p. Pl.	am-ēntūr, am-āntor, let them be loved.	Indicative, as, dum amatur.
		PERFECT, amātus, loved, being loved, or having been loved.
		FUTURE, am-andus, (wanting).
		GERUNDIVE, am-andus, that must be loved.

Note on amatus est, etc. In all Tenses compounded of the Participle amatus and the Auxiliary Verb sum, the Participle is made to agree in Gender and Number with the Subject of the Verb, as, Bellum amatum est, War was loved; Mulieres amatae sunt, The women were loved.

Note on the Gerundive. The Gerundive may, as a rule, be rendered in English by the word must or ought, and is usually Passive in meaning, as, Puer amandus est, The boy must be loved; literally, The boy is one who must be loved. The following constructions, which require to be translated by an Active form in English, should however be noticed.

(1) Amandum est, I, thou, he, she, it, we, you, or they must love; literally, it must be loved by me, thee, him, etc. Sometimes the Latin Pronoun is added in the Dative Case, as, Amandum est mihi, I must love, Amandum est tibi, Thou must love, etc.

(2) In bellis gerendis, In waging wars. The Gerundive in agreement with the Oblique Cases of a Substantive is often translated as a Gerund.

Note on the Formation of certain Tenses. From amav-i, the Perfect Active, are formed the Pluperfect and Future Perfect Indicative, amav-eram, amav-ero; the Perfect and Pluperfect Subjunctive, amav-erim, amav-issem; and the Perfect Infinitive, amav-isse. From amatum, the Supine (a Verb-Noun of the Fourth Declension having two cases, amatum and amatu), is formed the Future Infinitive Passive, amatum iri, meaning, to be gone to love (like the English phrase, 'he is gone a begging'), and similar in form are the Future Participle Active, amaturus, and the Perfect Participle Passive, amatus, the latter being, however, declined like bonus, -a, -um, not like amatum, amatu.

N.B. The Notes on the Finite Verb, Subjunctive Mood, etc. which were given with the Active Forms, apply equally to the Passive

mon-endus, that must be advised.		(wanting).

Note on monitus est, etc. In all Tenses compounded of the Participle monitus and the Auxiliary Verb sum, the Participle is made to agree in Gender and Number with the Subject of the Verb, as, Regina monita erat, The queen had been advised.

Note on the Gerundive. The Gerundive may, as a rule, be rendered in English by the word must or ought, and is usually Passive in meaning, as, Regina monenda est, The queen must be advised; literally, The queen is one who must be advised. The following constructions, which require to be translated by an Active form in English, should however be noticed.

(1) Monendum est, I, thou, he, she, it, we, you, or they must advise; literally, advice must be given by me, thee, him, etc. Sometimes the Latin Pronoun is added in the Dative Case, as, Monendum est mihi, I must advise; Monendum est tibi, Thou must advise, etc.

(2) Amor virtutis exercendae, The love of practising virtue. The Gerundive in agreement with the Oblique Cases of a Substantive is often translated as a Gerund.

Note on the Formation of certain Tenses. From monu-i, the Perfect Active, are formed the Pluperfect and Future Perfect Indicative, monu-eram, monu-ero; the Perfect and Pluperfect Subjunctive, monu-erim, monu-issem; and the Perfect Infinitive, monu-isse. From monitum, the Supine (a Verb-Noun of the Fourth Declension having two cases, monitum and monitu), is formed the Future Infinitive Passive, monitum iri, meaning, to be gone to advise, and similar in form are the Future Participle Active, moniturus, and the Perfect Participle Passive, monitus, the latter being, however, declined like bonus, -a, -um, not like monitum, monitu.

N.B. The Notes on the Finite Verb, Subjunctive Mood, etc. which were given with the Active forms, apply equally to the Passive.

3 p. Pl.	aud-īmīnī, aud-īmīnor, be ye heard .	PARTICIPLES.	aud-iūs, being heard , or having been heard .
PRESENT TENSE.		PAST TENSE.
Primary Tense.		Secondary Tense.

Note on auditus est, etc. In all Tenses compounded of the Participle auditus and the Auxiliary Verb sum, the Participle is made to agree in Gender and Number with the Subject of the Verb, as, Tonitrua audita sunt, Peals-of-thunder have been heard.

Note on the Gerundive. The Gerundive may, as a rule, be rendered in English by the word must or ought, and is usually Passive in meaning, as, Reges audiendi sunt, Kings must be heard; literally, Kings are people who must be heard. The following constructions, which require to be translated by an Active form in English, should however be noticed.

(1) Audiendum est, I, thou, he, she, it, we, you, or they must hear; literally, it must be heard by me, thee, him, etc. Sometimes the Latin Pronoun is added in the Dative Case, as, Audiendum est mihi, I must hear; Audiendum est tibi, Thou must hear, etc.

(2) Amor Platonis audiendi, The love of hearing Plato. The Gerundive in agreement with the Oblique Case of a Substantive is often translated as a Gerund.

Note on the Formation of certain Tenses. From audiv-i, the Perfect Active, are formed the Pluperfect and Future Perfect Indicative, audiv-eram, audiv-ero; the Perfect and Pluperfect Subjunctive, audiv-erim, audiv-issem; and the Perfect Infinitive, audiv-isse. From auditum, the Supine (a Verb-Noun of the Fourth Declension, having two cases, auditum and auditu), is formed the Future Infinitive Passive, auditum iri, meaning to be gone to hear, and similar in form are the Future Participle Active, auditurus, and the Perfect Participle Passive, auditus, the latter being, however, declined like bonus, -a, -um, not like auditum, auditu.

Note on Verbs in -io of the Third Conjugation. Certain Verbs in -io, as, fugio, capiō, facio, belong to the Third Conjugation. These drop the i before i, final e, and short ēr; as, ut-āntūr esse, to be about to use.

Note on Deponent Verbs. There are Four Conjugations of Deponent Verbs, as, venor, I hunt, vereor, I fear, utor, I use, and partior, I divide, which are conjugated like amor, moneor, regor, and audior respectively, except that they have Gerunds, Supines, a Future Participle, and a Future Infinitive of Active instead of Passive form.

Note on the Deponent Gerundive. The Gerundive is the only part of Deponent Verbs which is always used Passively. But many Perfect Participles are used Passively as well as Actively, as comitatus, accompanying and accompanied, from comitor; oblitus, forgetting and forgotten, from obliviscor.

Deponents in -ior of the Third Conjugation. The Verbs gradior, I walk, morior, I die, and patior, I suffer, belong to the Third Conjugation, and drop the i before er and short er, as

INDIC. PRES.	$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{pati-ot.} \\ \text{pat-éris} \text{ for pati-eris.} \\ \text{pat-ítur} \text{ for pati-itur.} \\ \text{pat-ímur} \text{ for pati-imur.} \\ \text{pat-imini} \text{ for pati-imini.} \\ \text{pati-untür.} \end{array} \right.$
IMPER. PRES.
SUBJ. IMPERF.
INF. PRES.

Note on the Verbs orior and potior. The Verbs orior and potior belong to the Fourth Conjugation of Deponents, but in some tenses they have forms borrowed from the Third, as,

INDIC. PRES.	$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} 2 \text{ p. S. orérīs or orīris.} \\ 3 \text{ p. S. orítur.} \\ 1 \text{ p. Pl. orímur.} \end{array} \right.$

INDICATIVE MOOD.

PRESENT TENSE.	amo-nē, Do I love? or, Am I loving? amas-ne, Dost thou love? or, Art thou loving? amat-ne, Does he love? or, Is he loving? amamus-ne, Do we love? or, Are we loving? amatis-ne, Do you love? or, Are you loving? amant-ne, Do they love? or, Are they loving?
FUTURE SIMPLE.	amabo-ne, Shall I love? amabis-ne, Wilt thou love? etc.
PERFECT.	amavi-ne, Have I loved?
FUTURE-PERFECT.	amavero-ne, Shall I have loved?
IMPERFECT.	amabam-ne, Was I loving?
SIMPLE-PAST.	amavi-ne, Did I love?
PLUPERFECT.	amaveram-ne, Had I loved?

SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD.

PRESENT.	amem-ne, Am I to love? or, May I love?
PERFECT.	amaverim-ne, May I love, if you please?
IMPERFECT.	amarem-ne, Should I love?
PLUPERFECT.	amavissem-ne, Should I have loved?

Note on the Interrogative-Negative. Nonne is used for an Interrogative-Negative Sentence, and expects the answer 'yes,' as, Nonnē amo, Do I not love?

Other Interrogative Words. Num, utrum, and an are also used in asking questions. Num expects the answer 'no,' as, Num negare audes, Do you venture to deny? i.e. You don't venture to deny, do you? Utrum, an, mean whether, or, and are called Disjunctives, as, *Utrum ea vestra an nostra culpa est, Is that your fault or ours?*¹

NOTES ON THE CONJUGATIONS.

§ 61. Contraction in the Perfect and Pluperfect Tenses. Perfects ending in -vi, and the Tenses formed from them, may suffer contraction in all Conjugations, the letter v being omitted, e. g.:

Conj. 1. Amâsti for amavisti; amâssent for amavissent.

Conj. 2. Compléro for complevero; quièsse for quievisse.

Conj. 3. Nôrunt for novérunt; nôsti for novisti.

Conj. 4. Audîsti for audivisti. In this Conjugation there is also a form produced by throwing out the v, without any contraction of vowels, as Perf. audii for audivi. This form is also found in certain Verbs of the Third Conjugation, as, peto, cupio, etc., which have Perfect in -vi, as, petii for petivi.

Note. This contraction is not allowed before -re in the 3rd Person Plural of the Perfect Indicative. We cannot write amâre for amavere.

§ 62. Old Latin Forms sometimes used in Poetry.

(1) In the Pres. Infin. Pass. -ier was used for -i, as, amarier for amari.

(2) In the Imperf. Indic. of 4th Conjugation e was dropped, as, audibam for audiebam.

(3) In the Fut. Simp. of 4th Conjugation -ibo and -ibor were used for -iam and -iar, as, audibo for audiam, audibor for audiar.

(4) The Subj. Pres. in the 1st and 3rd Conjugations

¹ Literally, ' Whether is that your fault or ours?' but the English interrogative whether is now seldom used in direct sentences.

sometimes ended in -im, as, duim, let me give, for dem; edim, let me eat, for edam.

§ 63. Note on certain Imperatives. Dico, duco, facio, and fero¹, make in the Imperative Present dic, duc, fac, fer. Scio, I know, has only scito, never sci, for Imperative.

§ 64. Note on the termination ‘-re’ for ‘-ris.’ The use of -re for -ris as the termination of the 2nd Pers. Sing. in the Passive Voice is common in all the tenses except the Present Indicative, where it might be mistaken for the Infinitive Active or Imperative Passive, as, amare.

§ 65. Gerundive in ‘-undus.’ The gerundives of the 3rd and 4th Conjugations are sometimes formed in -undus instead of -endus, especially when i precedes, as potiundus, capiundus.

§ 66. Note on the Periphrastic Conjugations. The Future Active Participle may be coupled with all the Tenses of the Verb sum, and thus a new Conjugation, called the Periphrastic, is formed, indicating that a person has a mind to do a thing or is upon the point of doing it, e. g.

amatur-us, -a, -um sum, I am about to love.

amatur-us, -a, -um eram, I was about to love.

And so on throughout all the tenses.

In the same way the Gerundive may be coupled with the Tenses of ‘sum,’ as, amandus sum, I ought to be loved or I must be loved.

amandus eram, I ought to have been loved, etc.

DEFECTIVE AND OTHER VERBS.

§ 67. Defective Verbs are those of which only certain Moods, Tenses, or Persons are found. The most remarkable are,—

(a) Aio, I say or affirm.

Indic. Pres.	Aio,	äis,	äit,	äiunt.
„ Imperf.	Ai-ëbam,	-ëbas,	-ëbat,	-ëbämus,
Subj. Pres.				-ëbäatis,

(b) Inquam, I say.

Indic. Pres.	Inquam,	inquäls,	inquält,	inquämus,	inquältis,	inquäunt.
„ Imperf.	Inquä-ëbam,	-ëbas,	-ëbat,	-ëbämus,	-ëbäatis,	-ëbant.
„ Fut.
Imperat. Pres.		inquäls,	inquälet.

(c) Coepi, I have begun, novi, I know, memini, I remember, and odi, I hate, have, for the most part, only those parts of the Verb which are formed from the Perfect Tense, e. g.:

Indic. Perf.	coepi, coepisti, coepit, etc.
„ Pluperf.	cooperam.
„ . Fut. Perf.	coepero.
Subj. Perf.	coeperim.
„ Pluperf.	coepissem.
Inf. Perf. and Pluperf.	coepisse.

Note. Coepi and odi have also a Perf. Part. coepitus, osus, and a Fut. Part. coepturus, osurus. Memini, has an Imperative memento, Plur. mémentôte.

(d) Fari, to speak, has fäatur, he speaks, fäbor, I shall speak, and färë, speak thou, with Participles fäatus, fandus, and Gerunds fandi, fando.

(e) The following Imperatives:

Ävë (or hävë), ävëte, hail. Infin. ävëre.

Salvë, salvëtë, hail. Infin. salvëre.

Cëdö, cëdítë (or cettë), give me.

Apägë, äpägitë, begone.

§ 68. Derived Verbs. Many Verbs are derived either from other Verbs or from Nouns. Those chiefly derived from Verbs are of four kinds, Inceptive, Desiderative, Frequentative, and Diminutive.

Inceptive Verbs signify 'to begin to do a thing,' and end in -sco, as, calesto, I grow warm (from caleo), tenerasco, I grow tender (from tener).

Desiderative Verbs signify 'to desire to do a thing,' and end in -urio, as, esurio, I wish to eat, or I am hungry (from edo).

Frequentative Verbs signify 'to do a thing frequently,' and end in -so, -to, and -ito, as, pulso (from pello, I drive), canto (from cano, I sing), and clamito (from clamo, I shout).

Diminutive Verbs signify 'to do a little thing,' and end in -illo, as, cantillo, I sing a little song (from cano).

Verbs derived from Nouns belong usually to the First Conjugation if Transitive, and to the Second if Intransitive, as, fraudare, to deceive [from 'fraus'], albēre, to be white [from 'albus'].

§ 69. Neuter Passive (or Semi-Deponent) Verbs. These are audeo, fido, gaudeo, and *soleo*¹. They have an Active Present with a Perfect of Passive form, as, audeo, ausus sum; fido, fisus sum; gaudeo, gavisus sum; soleo, solutus sum.

§ 70. Neutral Passive (or Quasi-Passive) Verbs. These are vēpūlo, vēnēo, līcēo, exūlo, and *fio*². They are Active in form but Passive in meaning.

§ 71. Impersonal Verbs. The chief Impersonal Verbs are the following. They are of the Second Conjugation, and are only found in the 3rd Person Singular of the Finite Verb, and in the Infinitive Mood.

² Am beaten, am for sale, am put up to auction, am banished, am made.

Pres.	Perf.	Infin.
dēcet,	dēcūt,	dēcēre, it becomes or beseems.
dēdēcet,	dēdēcūt,	dēdēcēre, it misbecomes.
lībet,	lībūt or lībūtum est,	lībēre, it pleases.
līcet,	līcūt or līcūtum est,	līcēre, it is lawful. līquet,	līcūt,	līquēre, it is clear.
mīsēret,	mīsērūt or mīsertum est,	mīsērēre, it moves to pity.
ōportet,	ōportuit,	ōportēre, it behoves or is necessary.
pīget,	pīgūt,	pīgēre, it irks or troubles.
poenītet,	poenītūt,	poenitēre, it repents.
pūdet,	pūdūt,	pudēre, it shames.
taedet,	taedūt or pertaesum est,	taedēre, it wearies.

The above Verbs are, for the most part, only found in the Impersonal form. But many completely conjugated Verbs are used impersonally, as, iuvo, I assist, which has iuvat, meaning it delights, with many others, e. g. :

Pres.	Perf.	Infin.
accēdit,	accessit,	accēdere, it is added. accēdit,	accēdit,	accidēre, it happens.
constat,	constitūt,	constāre, it is well known. convēnit,	convēnit,	convenīre, it suits. fit,	factum est,	fiēri, it comes to pass.

Together with certain Verbs denoting change of weather, as, pluit, it rains, fulminat, it lightens, tonat, it thunders, etc.

Intransitive Verbs are used impersonally in the Passive Voice, as, sto, I stand, statur, it is stood or a stand is made.

PARTICLES.

§ 72. Adverbs. These may express Place, Time, Manner, or Number, as, eo, thither, tunc, then, sapienter, wisely, bis, twice.

Adverbs are either Primitive, that is, not formed from any known word in the language, or Derivative, that is, formed from some other word, such as an Adjective, Participle, Noun, or Pronoun.

Terminations of Derivative Adverbs. Derivative Adverbs usually end in -ē, -ō, -ter, -im, or -itus.

(1) Adverbs in -ē are usually formed from Adjectives of the First Class in -us, -a, -um, and -er, -a, -um, as, dignus, worthy, dignè, worthily; pulcher, beautiful, pulchrè, beautifully.

(2) Adverbs in -o are derived from Adjectives or Participles in -us, as, subitus, sudden, subito, suddenly, meritus, deserved, merito, deservedly, but the termination is comparatively rare.

Note. Sometimes the Neuter of an Adjective¹ in -us is used Adverbially, as, horrendum stridens, sounding horribly.

(3) Adverbs in -ter are formed from Adjectives of the Second Class, and Participles in -is, by changing the -is of the Genitive Case into -iter or -ter, as, felix, Gen. felic-is, happy, felic-iter, happily; decens, Gen. decent-is, becoming, decent-er, becomingly.

Note. Sometimes the Neuter of an Adjective in -is supplies the place of an Adverb, as, dulcē, sweetly.

(4) Adverbs in -im are chiefly derived from Participles in -us, as, separatus, separated, separatim, separately.

(5) Adverbs in -itus are usually derived from Nouns, as, radix, a root, radicitus, by the roots.

Adverbs are also formed from Pronouns; thus from hic, this, are derived the Adverbs hīc, here, huc, hither, and hinc, from hence; from qui, who or which, are derived quā, where, and quo, whither, etc.

For comparison of Adverbs, see § 30, p. 15.

¹ Masculine and Feminine Adjectives are also used Adverbially, as, invitūs (or invitā) Romām migrāvit, he (or she) has unwillingly removed to Rome.

§ 73. Prepositions. The following Prepositions take an Accusative Case :

ad, to or at.	iuxta, near. adversus, } against.	ob, on account of.
adversum, } against.	penes, in the power of.
ante, before.	per, through.
apud, at or near.	pone, behind.
cis, citra, on this side.	post, after. circa, circum, around, about.	praeter, beside.
circiter, about.	prope, near.
contra, against.	propter, on account of.
erga, towards.	secundum, along. extra, outside of.	supra, above.
infra, beneath.	trans, across.
inter, between.	ultra, beyond. [its case].
intra, within.	versus, towards (placed after

The following take an Ablative Case :

a, ab, abs, from or by.	e, ex, out of.
absque, without.	prae, before, owing to, or com-
clam, without the knowledge of.	pared with.
coram, in the presence of.	pro, for, in front of. cum, with, in company with.	sine, without.
de, from or concerning.	tenus, as far as.

The following take both Accusative and Ablative; Accusative when motion to, Ablative when rest at, is implied :

in, into (Acc.), in (Abl.).	subter, under.
sub, up to, under (Acc.), under (Abl.).	super, over, upon.

§ 74. Conjunctions. Conjunctions are (1) Co-ordinative, as, et, and, sed, but, which do not affect the Mood of the Verb, or (2) Subordinative, as, ut, that, quum, when, which may affect it.

§ 75. Interjections. Interjections express joy, as, io, hail; grief, as, heu or eheu, alas! astonishment, as, en or ecce, lo! and calling or summoning, as, heus, ho!

A S H O R T C A T E C H I S M OR
L A T I N S Y N T A X.

I. Elementary Rules for Construing.

1. Q. How do we begin the translation of a Latin sentence?

A. First look for the Finite Verb¹, and then for its Subject. 'If the Verb be Transitive it will generally be followed by an Object in the Accusative Case.'

2. Q. How do we find the Subject?

A. The Subject is either

(1) A Substantive² or Pronoun in the Nominative Case expressed in the sentence; or,

(2) One of the Pronouns I, thou, he, she, it, we, you, or they, not expressed in the sentence but implied in the Verb-ending.

II. Varieties of the Sentence.

3. Q. How many kinds of sentences are there?

A. Three, namely :

¹ The Finite Verb of the Sentence is never found in a clause introduced by the Relative qui, quae, quod, or by a Subordinative Conjunction.

² Under the head of 'Substantives' are included words or phrases equivalent to Substantives, e. g. an Infinitive Mood, an Accusative and Infinitive, an Adjective used Substantively, or a whole clause introduced by a Conjunction.

- (1) The Statement, Affirmative or Negative, as Caesar writes; Caesar does not write.
- (2) The Question, Affirmative or Negative, as Does Caesar write? Does not Caesar write?
- (3) The Command or Request, Affirmative or Negative, as Write, O Caesar; Let Caesar write; Do not write, O Caesar.

4. Q. In what two forms may each of these be found?

A. The Direct and the Indirect. A simple statement, question, or command, is called Direct: if dependent on another Verb it is called Indirect, as,

- (a) 'Brutus killed Caesar.' Direct Statement.
- (b) 'He said that Brutus killed Caesar.' Here 'Brutus killed Caesar' is an Indirect Statement, because dependent on the words 'He said that.'

Indirect Sentences are also called Oblique or Dependent.

5. Q. What is a Complex Sentence?

A. A number of sentences joined together in such a manner that one is Principal and the others Subordinate.

6. Q. Distinguish between Principal and Subordinate Sentences?

A. The Principal Sentence contains the main Statement, Question, or Command: Subordinate Sentences are added in order to explain or modify all or part of the Principal Sentence.

III. On the Four Concords or Rules of Agreement.

7. Q. What are the Four Concords or Rules of Agreement?

A. (1) The Finite Verb agrees with its Nominative in Number and Person.

- (2) The Adjective [or Participle] agrees with its Substantive in Gender, Number, and Case.
- (3) The Substantive agrees in Case with that to which it is in Apposition.
- (4) The Relative qui, quae, quod, agrees with its Antecedent in Gender, Number, and Person; but in Case belongs to its own clause.

IV. On Questions and Negations.

- 8. Q. How are Questions introduced in Latin?
- A. Simple Questions are introduced by ne and num; ne is used for a Simple Affirmative Question, and num for a Question where the answer 'No' is expected.
- 9. Q. Name the chief Interrogative Pronouns and Particles in Latin?
- A. Qualis, quantus, uter, quis, quot, quotus, unde, ubi, quando, Cur, quoties, quare, quam, quomodo, num, ne, ut, an, *utrum*¹.
- 10. Q. How is the word not expressed in Latin?
- A. By non in Statements, nonne in Questions, and ne in Commands or Requests.

V. On Copulative and Factitive Verbs.

- 11. Q. What are Copulative Verbs?
- A. The Verb sum, and Passive Verbs of thinking, calling, or making.
- 12. Q. What are Factitive Verbs?
- A. Active Verbs of thinking, calling, and making.

VI. On Apposition.

13. Q. Name the three kinds of Apposition.

A. (1) The first kind is shewn in such a sentence as, Marius consul triumphavit, Marius the consul triumphed; where the second Substantive comes close after the first and gives a further description of it.

(2) The second is shewn in such sentences as, Marius erat consul, Marius was consul; Marius consul creatus est, Marius was made consul; where the second Substantive is separated from the first by a Copulative Verb.

(3) The third is shewn in such a sentence as, Marium consulem creaverunt, They made Marius consul; where both Substantives are in the Accusative after a Factitive Verb¹.

VII. Rules of Time and Place.

14. Q. Give the rules for expressing Duration of Time [or time how-long], and a Point of Time [or time when].

A. Duration of Time is put in the Accusative, a Point of Time in the Ablative.

15. Q. How is to a place expressed?

A. By ad or in with Accusative, unless the place be a town or small island, when the Preposition is omitted.

¹ Adjectives may also be used Appositionally after Copulative and Factitive Verbs. They must agree in Gender and Number as well as Case with the Substantive, as, Crassus erat ditissimus, Crassus was very rich; Gens ea Fabia vocatur, That clan is called the Fabian; Hannibalem fortissimum puto, I deem Hannibal very brave.

16. Q. How is from a place expressed?

A. By ab or ex with Ablative, unless the place be a town or small island, when the Preposition is omitted.

17. Q. How is at a place expressed?

A. By ad, in, apud, etc., with their cases, unless the place be a town or small island, and then—use the Simple Ablative, unless the Noun be of the First or Second Declension, Singular Number, when the Genitive must be used.

VIII. On the Accusative Case.

18. Q. How is the Accusative translated?

A. (1) The Accusative of the Object follows Transitive Verbs, and has no sign, as, Video taurum, I see a bull.

(2) The Accusative of kindred meaning follows Intransitive Verbs, and has no sign, as, Duram servit servitutem, He serves a hard servitude.

(3) The Accusative of Respect follows certain Verbs, Particles, and Adjectives, and is translated by the sign with respect to or as to, as, Latus humeros, Broad as to his shoulders, i.e. broad-shouldered.

19. Q. What Verbs take two Accusatives?

A. Verbs of asking and *teaching*¹, as, Nunquam divitias deos rogavi, I never asked the gods for riches.

IX. On the Genitive Case.

20. Q. What is the sign of the Genitive Case?

A. The word of, or 's; but after Verbs governing a Genitive the sign is omitted.

¹ And sometimes the Verb celo, to conceal.

21. Q. What Verbs govern a Genitive?

A. Reminiscor, oblisiscor, memini, recordor, misereor, miseresco, potior, interest, and refert¹.

22. Q. Name two remarkable uses of the Genitive.

A. (1) The Genitive of Value, as, Parvi facere, To make of small account.

(2) The Elliptic Genitive, or Genitive dependent on some word understood signifying mark, duty, or business, as, Pastoris est tondere oves, 'Tis shepherd's work to shear his sheep.

X. On the Dative Case.

23. Q. What are the signs of the Dative Case?

A. The words to or for; but after Verbs and other words governing the Dative the signs are usually omitted.

24. Q. What Verbs govern the Dative?

A. (1) Nearly all Verbs compounded with

Bene, male, satis, re,
Ad, ante, con, in, inter, de,
*Ob, sub, super, post, and prae*².

(2) A dative put with tell, and give,
 With envy, spare, permit, believe,
Persuade, obey, *command*³; to these Add pardon, *succour*³, and displease,
 With vacare, and *placere*³,
Servire, nubere; studere,
Heal, favour, *hurt*³, resist, and *indulgere*⁴.

⁴ Dico, do, invideō, parco, permitto or licet, crēdo, persuadēo, parēo or obedio, impēro, ignosco, succurro or subvenio, displēcio, have leisure, please.

25. Q. What other words govern a Dative?

A. Words implying information, pleasantness, nearness, and superiority [i. e. such words as in English are followed by the Preposition to—not implying motion to—expressed or understood], and the contraries of these, viz. words implying *concealment, unpleasantness, remoteness, and inferiority*¹.

26. Q. What is the Passive use of Verbs which in the Active Voice govern a Dative?

A. They are only used impersonally in the Passive. Thus, I persuade is ‘persuadeo,’ but I am persuaded is not ‘persuadeor,’ but ‘persuadetur mihi;’ literally, it is persuaded to me.

XI. On the Ablative Case.

27. Q. What are the signs of the Ablative Case?

A. In, with, from, by, and sometimes at, than, of, and for; but after Verbs and Adjectives governing the Ablative the signs are sometimes omitted.

28. Q. What Verbs govern the Ablative?

A. *Fungor, fruor, utor, vescor, potior, dignor*², and Verbs of wanting, being full, enriching, or depriving.

29. Q. What Adjectives govern the Ablative?

A. *Dignus, indignus, fatus, extorris, liber*³, and Ad- be the slave of, be married to, devote oneself to, medior, faveo, noceo, resisto, indulge. Adapted from ‘Henry’s First Latin Book,’ § 191.

jectives which signify wanting, being full, enriching, or depriving.

30. Q. What Substantives govern the Ablative?

A. Opus and *usus*¹.

31. Q. Mention three special uses of the Ablative Case.

A. (1) The Ablative after Comparatives, which is translated by the word than, as, Caesar maior erat Crasso, Caesar was greater than Crassus.

(2) The Ablative of the Agent, or living person by whom a thing is done, which requires a or ab, as, Caesar a Bruto interfactus est, Caesar was killed by Brutus.

(3) The Ablative of Price, which is translated by the word for, as, Hortum tribus talentis ēmit, He bought a garden for three talents.

32. Q. What other sorts of Ablative are there?

A. Ablatives of Cause, Respect, Description, Instrument, Place, Time, and Measure.

XII. On the Gerundive.

33. Q. Can the Gerunds take an Object in the Accusative Case?

A. Sometimes², as, Efferor studio patres vestros videndi, I am elated with the desire of seeing your fathers. But usually the Noun is put into the Case of the Gerund, and instead of the Gerund the Gerundive is used, agreeing in Gender, Number, and Case with the Noun.

34. Q. Give an example.

A. Instead of saying, Amor exercendi virtutem, The love of practising virtue, we should say, Amor exercendae virtutis.

² Especially when a Neuter Pronoun or Adjective is the Object.

35. Q. How is the word must translated into Latin?

A. By the forms amandum est, monendum est, etc., which are probably the neuters of the Gerundive.

36. Q. Can this form take an Accusative of the Object after it, as, Amandum est Deum, We must love God?

A. No; we must say, Amandus est Deus. But after Verbs governing the Dative, a Dative of the Object is used, as, Parcendum est hostibus, We must spare our enemies.

37. Q. In what case is the Agent, or living person by whom a thing is done, put after the Gerundive?

A. In the Dative¹, as, Canendum est poetae, The poet must sing [literally, 'it is to be sung by the poet ;'] unless the Verb be one of those which govern a Dative, when a or ab with Ablative must be used, as, Credendum est a poetâ, The poet must believe.

XIII. On the Relative 'qui, quae, quod.'

38. Q. What is the rule for the Mood of the Verb after qui?

A. Qui, in its simple sense of who or which, takes the Indicative: if there is implied in it since, although, in order that, or such that, it takes the Subjunctive².

XIV. On the word 'to.'

39. Q. How is the word to translated into Latin?

A. With Substantives it is the sign of the Dative, except when it implies motion to; with Verbs it is the sign of the Infinitive except when it means in order to.

² P. S. L. P. § 150.

40. Q. How is to implying motion to expressed in Latin?

A. By ad or in with the Accusative, unless motion to a town or small island is implied, when the Accusative without a Preposition is used.

41. Q. How is to meaning in order to expressed in Latin?

A. Usually by ut with Pres. or Imperf. Subjunctive, as, Vénit ut videat, He comes to see, literally, he comes that he may see; Vénérat ut vidēret, He had come to see, literally, he had come that he might see. But there are several other ways of expressing the sentence.

42. Q. Translate, in as many ways as possible, 'He sends men to kill Marcus.'

A. (1) Mittit homines ut Marcum occidant.

(2) Mittit homines qui Marcum occidant.

(3) Mittit homines Marcum occisum. [Supine, which may be used after Verbs of Motion.]

(4) Mittit homines Marcum occisūros. [Future Participle agreeing with homines.]

(5) Mittit homines ad Marcum occidendum.

(6) Mittit homines Marci occidendi causā. [Lit. for the purpose of killing Marcus.]

XXV. On the word 'of'

43. Q. How is the word of expressed in Latin?

A. By the Genitive Case; but there are several exceptions:

(1) When of signifies apposition, as, Urbs Roma, The city of Rome.

(2) When of signifies quality or material, as, Portae ferreae, Gates of iron [not portae ferrī].

- (3) When of means concerning; it must then be translated by de with Ablative, as, Dixit de his rebus, He spoke of these things.
- (4) When of is part of the Verb, as, Curare corpus, To take-care-of the body.
- (5) When of is sign of the Ablative after words signifying want or deprivation, as, Auro templum spoliare, To rob a temple of its gold.

XVI. On the word 'having.'

- 44. Q. What is the Perfect Active Participle of the Verb amo?
A. There is no Perfect Active Participle of amo, or [with a few exceptions] of any Latin Verbs except Deponent Verbs.
- 45. Q. How then is 'having loved' translated?
A. By quum with Perfect or Pluperfect Subjunctive, as, Quum amaverit, When he has loved, or, *Quum amavisset, When he had loved*¹.

XVII. Rules for the Verb in Dependent Sentences.

- 46. Q. In what Mood are Verbs put when dependent on Impersonals, and Verbs of declaring or perceiving?
A. The Principal Verbs are in the Infinitive Mood, the Subordinate Verbs in the Subjunctive.
- 47. Q. What is the rule for Oblique Question, and Oblique Command or Request?
A. The Verbs, whether Principal or Subordinate, are put in the Subjunctive.

XVIII. On the Sequence of Tenses.

48. Q. What is meant by the Sequence of Tenses?

A. The correspondence always observed between the tenses of the Principal Verbs in a sentence and those of the Subordinate Verbs.

49. Q. What is the rule for the Sequence of Tenses?

A. Primary Tenses are followed by Primary, Historic by Historic.

XIX. On 'ut.'

50. Q. What is the rule for ut?

A. Ut, meaning as, when, or how, takes an Indicative: ut, meaning in order that, or so that, takes a Subjunctive.

51. Q. How are in order that . . . not, and so that . . . not, translated?

A. In order that . . . not by nē; so that . . . not by ut non.

XX. Rules for Translating 'him,' 'her,' 'them,' 'it,' 'his,' 'their,' and 'its.'

52. Q. How are the words him, her, them, and it translated into Latin?

A. When they mean himself, herself, themselves, or itself, they may be rendered by se, sui, sibi; otherwise they must be rendered by the Pronouns hic, ille, or is.

53. Q. How are his, her, their, and its translated?

A. If they mean his own, her own, their own, or its own, they may be rendered by suus; otherwise they must be rendered by eius, illius, eorum, or *illorum*¹.

¹ In Complex Sentences se and suus refer to the Subject of the Principal Sentence, if it be of the Third Person. P.S.L.P. § 145.

XXI. Rule for 'quum.'

54. Q. What is the Rule for quum?

A. Quum, meaning since or although, always takes the Subjunctive; quum, meaning when, takes a Subjunctive if the sense requires an Imperfect or Pluperfect Tense; otherwise it takes the Indicative.

XXII. Additional Notes on Dependent Sentences.

55. Q. Upon what Verbs do Oblique Statements usually depend?

A. Upon Impersonal Verbs and Verbs of declaring and perceiving, knowing, or thinking.

56. Q. Upon what Verbs do Oblique Questions usually depend?

A. Upon any Verbs which admit an Interrogative Particle after them.

57. Q. Upon what Verbs do Oblique Commands usually depend?

A. Upon Verbs of commanding or forbidding, allowing or preventing, asking, caring, endeavouring, and effecting.

XXIII. Additional Note on the Sequence of Tenses.

58. A Primary Tense is followed

(1) By a Present Subjunctive, if the action takes place at the same time as that of the governing Verb, as, Nescio an verum dicat, I know not whether he is speaking the truth.

(2) By a Perfect Subjunctive, if the action takes place before that of the governing Verb, as, Nescio unde vēnērit, I know not whence he has come, or, I know not whence he came.

A Historic Tense is followed

- (1) By an Imperfect Subjunctive, (a) if the action takes place at the same time as that of the governing Verb, (b) if Simple Past time is meant to be expressed, as,

 - (a) Dubitabam quid facerent, I was doubtful what they were doing.
 - (b) Tantâ vi hostes adortus est ut totam aciem perfringeret, He attacked the enemy with such force that he broke through their whole line.

- (2) By a Pluperfect Subjunctive, if the action takes place before that of the governing Verb, as, Quaesivi cur ita fecisset, I asked why he had acted thus.

Note on the Subjunctive Simple Past. From the above it appears that the Simple Past Tense, when required to be put in the Subjunctive Mood, is rendered by the Perfect or Imperfect; by the Perfect if the governing Verb be a Primary Tense, by the Imperfect if it be Historic. But many cases occur where a Pluperfect is used in order to mark priority of time, as, Putavit se, si flumen transiisset, victurum esse, He thought he should conquer if he crossed the river. Here transiisset marks priority of time to the action denoted by victurum esse.

EXAMPLES OF THE FOREGOING RULES,

45. Personal use of Copulative Verbs.

It is said that Claudius was mad.	Claudius insānus fūisse dicitur [not Claudiūm insānum fūisse dicitur].
--------------------------------------	--

¹ This omission of the auxiliary is very frequent in all authors, and constantly causes trouble and difficulty to beginners. Until considerable progress has been made in Latin the auxiliary should in all cases be supplied, and its omission be considered an irregularity.

I am surprised at its being said that Claudius was mad. Miror quod Claudio insanus fuisse dicitur.

46. The word 'which' used as Nominative and as Accusative.

The army which Hannibal brought with him was small.	Exercitus, quem Hannibal sēcum duxit, parvus erat.
It is said that Scipio commanded the army which overcame Hannibal.	Exercitū, qui Hannibalem superāvit, Scipio praefuisse dicitur.
I am expecting the letter which you have written.	Literas exspecto, quas scripsti.
The hour which has passed can never return.	Non, quae praeteriit, hora redire potest.

47. 'Quod,' 'because,' with Subjunctive, when implying an asserted, or imagined, not an actual reason.

They condemned Marcus to death on the charge of killing his father.	Marcum capitis damnārunt quod patrem occidisset, [i. e. 'because they said he had killed his father.] 'Because he had killed his father' would be Indicative, 'quod patrem occiderat.]
It is said that they condemned Marcus to death on the charge of killing his father.	Dicuntur Marcum capitis damnāsse quod patrem occidisset.

48. Use of 'opus' with the Perfect Participle Passive.

Before you begin there is need of deliberation, and, after deliberation, of prompt despatch.	Priusquam incipias consulto, et ubi consūlūeris, matūrē facta opus est.
--	--

I do not wonder that before you begin there is need of deliberation and, after deliberation, of prompt despatch. Non miror si, priusquam incipias consulto, et, ubi consilium, matūrè facto opus est.

49. 'Would,' the sign of the Future Tense in Dependent Sentences.

I. ACTIVE VOICE.

(1) He would love.	Amāret.
He said that he would love.	Dixit se amātūrum esse ¹ .
It was uncertain whether he would love.	Incertum erat num amaturus esset.
(2) He would have loved.	Amāvisset.
He said that he would have loved.	Dixit se amaturum fuisse ² .
It is uncertain whether he would have loved.	Incertum est num amaturus fuisset.

II. PASSIVE VOICE.

(1) He would be loved.	Amārētur.
He said that he would be loved.	Dixit se amātūm iri ³ .
It was uncertain whether he would be loved.	Incertum erat num amārētur ⁴ .

² With Verbs having no Supine, 'futurum fuisse ut,' with Imperfect Subjunctive would be used.

³ With Verbs having no Supine, 'fore ut' or 'futurum esse ut,' with Imperfect Subjunctive, would be used.

⁴ The Passive has no special form for the Future Subjunctive. 'Incertum erat num amaretur' therefore may mean, 'It was uncertain whether he would be loved,' or, 'It was uncertain whether he was loved.' Such a form as 'futurum esset ut amaretur' is not found.

(2) He would have been loved. He said that he would have been loved.	Amatus esset.
	Dixit futūrum fūisse ut amā- retur.
It is uncertain whether he would have been loved.	Incertum est an amātus esset.

D.	Aeneae ,	Atrīdae ,	Circae ,
Ab.	Aeneā .	Atrīdē [or -ā].	Circe .

Notes. The termination -ides or -ades means 'son of.' Nouns ending thus, as Atrides, are called *Patronymics*¹.

The above Greek Nouns are declined in the Plural like 'mensa,' but, with the exception of the Patronymics [which have -um in Gen. Pl.], are rarely found in this Number.

(2) The old Latin Genitive Singular of this Declension ended in -as. Hence paterfamilias, father of a family. Another ending, used chiefly by poets, is -āi, as, aulāi for aulae.

(3) -um for -arum appears as Genitive Plural (a) of Patronymics, (b) of drachma and amphora, (c) in poetry of certain people, as, Lapithūm, Teleboūm, (d) of compounds of colo and gigno, as, coelicolūm, terrigenūm.

(4) Dea, filia, equa, *mula*², make -abus for -is in Dative and Ablative Plural.

² Goddess, daughter, mare, she-mule.

II. Second Declension.

(1) Several Greek Nouns in -os and -on belong to this Declension.

N. V.	Dēlōs,	Androgeōs,	Pelion,
Acc.	Delōn [or -um],	Androgeōn [ō or öna],	Pelion,
Gen.	Deli,	Androgei [or -ō],	Pelii,
D. Ab.	Delo.	Androgeo.	Pelio.

(2) Vir, a man, makes Acc. vir-um, Gen. vir-i, and so throughout. Deus, God, is thus declined:—

N. V.	Acc.	Gen.	D. Abl.
Sing.	Deus,	Deum,	Dei,
Plur.	Di [or dii],	Deos,	Deūm [or deorum],

Dis [or diis].

(3) -um for -orum appears as Genitive Plural (a) of trades, coins, weights, measures, and distributive numerals, as fabrūm, talentūm, *denūm*¹; (b) in poetry, of names of people, as Rutulūm; (c) of deus, vir, and *liberi*², as deūm, virtūm, liberūm, and some others, chiefly in poetry.

III. Third Declension.

(1) The stems of the Nouns of this Declension are very various, and can only be completely learnt by practice. The following are examples of the principal varieties:—

(a) Masculine and Feminine Nouns.

-O.	latro,	robber,	Gen. latrōn-is.
	Macēdo,	Macedonian ,	" Maceđōn-is.
	homo,	man ,	" homōn-is.
-ER.	carcer,	prison ,	" carcēr-is.
	pater,	father ,	" patr-is.
-OR.	lābor,	labour ,	" labōr-is.
	arbor,	tree ,	" arbōr-is.

² God, man, children.

-AS.	cívitas,	state,	Gen. civitāt-is.
-ES.	nūbēs,	cloud,	„ nūb-is.
	mercēs,	pay,	„ mercēd-is.
	mīlēs,	soldier,	„ mīlīt-is.
-IS.	lāpīs,	stone,	„ lāpīd-is.
	āvis,	bird,	„ āv-is.
-US.	virtūs,	virtue,	„ virtūt-is.
-S.	trabs,	beam,	„ trāb-is.
	pars,	part,	„ part-is.
-X.	fax,	torch,	„ fāc-is.
	pollex,	thumb,	„ pollic-is.
	cervix,	neck,	„ cervīc-is.
	merx,	merchandise,	„ merc-is.

(b) Neuter Nouns.

-C.	lac,	milk,	Gen. lact-is.
-E.	rētē,	net,	„ rēt-is.
-L.	mēl,	boney,	„ mell-is.
	ānīmāl,	animal,	„ ānīmāl-is.
-N.	carmen,	song,	„ carmīn-is.
-R.	calcar,	spur,	„ calcār-is.
	ebur,	ivory,	„ ēbōr-is.
-S.	ōpūs,	work,	„ ōpēr-is.
	littūs,	shore,	„ littōr-is.
	iūs,	right,	„ iūr-is ¹ .

(2) List of Nouns having -im in Accusative, and -i in Ablative.

Vis, ravis, pelvis, sitis, tussis,
 Sināpis, cūcūmis, āmussis,
 Praesēpis, cannabis, secūris,
 Charybdis, tigris, atque būris,
Et omnes fluvii in -IS,
*Ut Albis, Tibris, Tamēsis*².

N.B. All Nouns which were originally Adjectives in -is follow tristis, and make Acc. -em, Abl. -i, as, Atheniensis [sc. 'homo'], an

Athenian; Aprilis [sc. mensis], April; annalis [sc. liber], chronicle. September, October, November, December [sc. mensis], follow 'acer.'

Neuters in -e, -al, -ar, make -i in Abl. Sing., -ia in N. V. Acc. Pl.

(3) Rules for the Genitive Plural.

(a) Nouns not increasing make -ium.

(b) Nouns increasing make -um.

Exceptions to (a) are:

Vates, and proles, iuvenis, senex, canis,

*Accipiter, pater, mater, frater, panis*¹.

Exceptions to (b) are:

1. Monosyllabic Nouns of which the stem ends in two Consonants, as, dens, tooth, dent-, Gen. Pl. dent-ium.

2. Glis, mas, mus, lis,
*Nix, strix, faux, vis*².

3. Neuters in -al and -ar.

(4) Greek Nouns of this Declension in -as, -er, -is, and -os, make Acc. -em or -a, as, hēros, hero, Acc. hērōem or herōā; āēr, air, Acc. āērem or āērā. The Acc. Pl. usually ends in -ās.

Greek Nouns in -is and -ys make -i and -y in Voc. Poēsis, poesy, has Acc. poēsim or -in, Voc. poēsi.

Greek Nouns in -es have the regular Latin form, and also, in certain cases, duplicate forms derived from the Greek, e. g. Acc. -ēn, -ēā, or -ētā, Gen. -i, -ei, or -ētis.

Orpheus is thus declined:—

Nom. Orpheus, Acc. Orpheum or -ea, D. Orpheo, -ēi, -ei, Voc. Orpheu, Gen. Orphei or -eos, Ab. Orpheo.

(5) The Acc. Pl. of Nouns not increasing is often spelt -is instead of -es, as, nubis for nubes.

IV. Fourth Declension.

Nouns which take -ubus in Dat. Abl. Pl. are dissyllables in -eūs, as, arcus, bow; also, tribus, tribe; partus, birth; veru, spit; artus, Pl. limbs.

V. Fifth Declension.

(1) The -e of the Genitive -ei is long when preceded by a vowel, as faciei; otherwise it is short, as r̄ei. But fid̄ei is doubtful.

(2) Only 'dies' and 'res' in this Declension have the Plural complete: the others either have N. V. Acc. Cases only, or no Plural at all.

VI. Adjectives.

(1) Present Participles are declined like 'ingens.' In the Ablative Absolute construction they make -e in Abl. Sing.; when used as epithets, -i.

(2) Many Adjectives belonging to the same class as 'ingens' and 'felix' have no Nom. Voc. Acc. Neuters Plural, and are scarcely ever used in the Nom. Voc. Acc. Neuter Singular. Among them are the following. They make -e, not -i, in Abl. Sing., and -um instead of -ium in Gen. Plural.

Pauper, puber, hospes, compos,
Superstes, senex, sospes, impos,
Ales, deses, and reses,
Compounds add of corpus, pes,
*As bicorpor, quadrupes*¹.

The following are like the above, but have -i in Ablative Sing.

Degener, inops, memor
Vigil, uber, immemor².

VII. Some Irregular Substantives.

N. V. Iupiter, Jupiter, has Acc. Iovem, Gen. Iovis, etc.

N. V. Bos, ox, Acc. bovem, Gen. bovis, etc., Gen. Pl. bōum, Dat. Abl. bōbus or būbus.

N. V. Paterfamilias, father of a family, Acc. patremfamilias, Gen. patrisfamilias, etc. Here familias is an old form of the Gen., but there is also a form paterfamiliae, Acc. patrem familiae, etc.

N. V. Acc. Iusiusurandum, oath, Gen. iurisiurandi, Dat. iuriu-rando, etc.

N. V. Respublica, state, Acc. rempublicam, Gen. reipublicae.

N. V. Acc. Iter, journey, Gen. itineris.

N. V. Supellex, furniture, Acc. supellectilem, Gen. supellectilis.

N. V. Acc. Iecur, liver, G. iecinōris or iēcōris.

² Degenerate, needy, mindful; wakeful, fruitful, unmindful.

VIII. Some Nouns which vary their Meaning in the Plural.

S. Aedes, a temple.	Impedimentum, hindrance.
P. Aedes, a house.	Impedimenta, baggage.
S. Auxilium, help.	Littéra, letter of the alphabet.
P. Auxilia, auxiliary forces.	Litterae, epistle, literature.
S. Carcer, prison.	Ludus, play.
P. Carcères, starting place.	Ludi, public games.
S. Castrum, fort.	Lustrum, space of five years,
P. Castra, camp.	Lustra, dens, lairs.
S. Copia, plenty.	Opéra, labour.
P. Copiae, forces.	Operae, work-people.
S. Finis, end.	Opem [Acc.], help.
P. Fines, boundaries.	Opes, power, wealth.
S. Gratia, favour.	Sal, salt.
P. Gratiae, thanks or the Graces.	Sales, wit.

D.—NUMERAL ADJECTIVES AND ADVERBS.

Numerals are of various kinds.

(1) Cardinal, as, unus, one, duo, two, etc. The first three Cardinals have been already declined. From quatuor, four, to centum, a hundred, they are indeclinable.

(2) Ordinal, as, primus, first, secundus, second.

(3) Distributive, as, singuli, one apiece, bini, two apiece.

(4) Multiplicative, as, simplex, simple, duplex, twofold, triplex, threefold.

(5) Adverbial Numerals, as, semel, once, bis, twice.

(6) There are also Proportional Numerals, ending in -plus, and meaning 'how many times as great,' as, duplus, twice as great, triplus, three times as great; and a class of Adverbs formed from the Ordinals and ending in -o or -um, as, primo or primum, for the first time.

The principal Numerals are given in the following Table:—

Arabic Numbers.	Roman Symbols.	Cardinals.	Ordinals.	Distributives.	Multiplicatives.	Adverbs.

E.—TABLE OF RELATIVE, INTERROGATIVE, AND INDEFINITE PRONOUNS.

I. The Simple Forms.

The Relative Pronoun, Qui, quae, quod, who or which.

The Interrogative Pronoun, { Quis, (quis), quid, } who? or what? { Qui, quae, quod.

The Indefinite Pronoun, { Quis, quā, quid, Qui, quae, quod. } any.

Note. These duplicate forms of the Interrogative and Indefinite should be carefully remembered. The first is the Substantival Form, as, Quis hoc fecit? Who did this? Si quis hoc faciat, If any one should do this; the second is the Adjectival, used when some Substantive is introduced agreeing with the Pronoun, as, Qui puer hoc fecit? What boy did this? Si qui puer hoc faciat, *If any boy should do this*¹. The same distinction is preserved in many of the following Compounds.

II. The Compounds.

Deslections :—

Quidam, a certain person. Quidam, quaedam, quiddam, Subst. quoddam. Adi. }

Quivis, } any you	Quivis, quaevis, quidvis, Subst. } quodvis, Adj.
-------------------	--

Quicunque, } whoso-	Quicunque, quaecunque , quodcunque .
Quisquis. } ever.	(For declension of 'quisquis' see below.)

quodcumque. Adi.

Unusquisque, each one. Unusquisque, unaquaque, unumquicque or -dque, Subst. } unumquodque. Adj. }

¹ These distinctions are by no means rigidly observed among Latin writers, e.g. 'si quis Dens, enī ego, dicat,' Hor., but they should be noticed by beginners.

Aliquis, some .	Aliquis, aliquā, aliquid, Subst. } Aliqui, aliquae, aliquod, Adj. }
Quispiam, any one .	Quispiam, quaepiam, quidpiam or quippiam, Subst. } quodpiam, Adj. }
Quisquam, any one at all .	Quisquam, quaequam, quidquam or quicquam.
Ecquis, ecqua, ecquid,	Ecqui, ecquae or -ā, ecquod, } any? is an Interrogative-Indefinite Pronoun.
	The Interrogative part is translated by throwing the sentence in which the Pronoun occurs into the form of a question, and the Indefinite part by supposing the word any , as Ecqua puer cura est? Has the boy any care?
Quisquis, whosoever ,	is thus declined:—
N.	Quisquis, neut. quidquid or quicquid.
Acc.	Quemquam, neut. quidquid or quicquid.
Abl.	Quoquo, quāquā, quoquo.

F.—TERMINATIONS OF DERIVED NOUNS.

I. Derived Substantives are formed, 1. from Verbs, 2. from other Substantives, 3. from Adjectives.

1. Substantives derived from Verbs.

(a) -tor and -sor express the person who does the action denoted by the Verb, as, amator, a lover, from amo; suasor, an adviser, from suadeo. A feminine form in -trix is sometimes found, as, victrix.

Note. Some Substantives in -tor are derived immediately from other Substantives, as viator, a traveller, from via.

(b) -tio, -tus, -sio, and -sus, express the action of the Verb, as, motio and motus, motion, from moveo; visus and visio, sight, from video.

(c) -ium, -or, and -us express the effect of the action denoted by the Verb as, gaudium, joy, from gaudeo; amor, love, from amo; usus, use, from utor.

- (d) -mentum and -men express means of attaining that which the Verb denotes, as, documentum, means of teaching, from doceo ; tutamen, means of defence, from tutor.
- (e) -ulum, -bulum, -culum, denote instrument, as, iac-ulum, instrument for throwing, from iacio.

2. Substantives derived from other Substantives.

- (a) -lus, -la, -lum [the termination varies according to the gender of the Primitive Substantive], express diminutives. These terminations assume various forms, e. g. -ulus, -culus, -illus, -illus; as, cornic-ula, a little crow, from cornix ; corni-culum, a little horn, from cornu ; libellus, a little book, from liber ; lapillus, a little stone, from lapis.

Note. -leus is sometimes a diminutive ending, as, equuleus, a colt, from equus.

- (b) -ium denotes either an office, as, sacerdotium, priesthood, the office of the sacerdos ; or an assemblage of individuals, as, collegium, a college, or assembly of collegae.

- (c) -ētum denotes a place where plants grow, as quercetum, a grove of oaks, from quercus ; salictum (for salicētum), a willow-bed, from salix.

- (d) -arium denotes a receptacle, as, armarium, a cupboard, from arma.

- (e) -ile denotes a place where animals are kept, as, ovile, a sheepfold, from ovis.

- (f) -ia denotes a country, and is usually derived from the name of its people, as, Italia, the country of the Itali.

- (g) Patronymics end in -ides, as, Priamides, son of Priamus ; or -ades, as, Aeneades, son of Aeneas. The feminines end in -ia, as, Nereis, daughter of Nereus ; or -as, as, Thestias, daughter of Thestius.

3. Substantives derived from Adjectives.

These all denote the quality which the Adjective expresses attributively. The chief terminations are :

- (a) -itas or -tas, as, bonitas, goodness, the quality of the bonus.

- (b) -ia, as, audacia, boldness, the quality of the audax.
- (c) -itia, as, iustitia, justice, the quality of the iustus.
- (d) -tudo, as, fortitudo, bravery, the quality of the fortis.

II. Derived Adjectives are formed, 1. from Verbs, 2. from Substantives, 3. from Adverbs and Prepositions.

1. Adjectives formed from Verbs.

These usually have the force of Participles. The following are the principal terminations :

- (a) -bundus and -cundus. These = Present Active Participles, with intensive meaning, as, lacrymabundus, weeping profusely, from lacrymor; iracundus, full of wrath, from irascor.
- (b) -ax denotes active inclination, as, pugnax, fond of fighting, from pugno.
- (c) -idus, chiefly from Intransitive Verbs, denotes activity, as fervidus, glowing, from ferveo.
- (d) -ilis and -ibilis denote capacity, and are generally used Passively, as, docilis, teachable, from doceo; mobilis (for movibilis), movable, from moveo. But some are used Actively, as, terribilis, terrible (i. e. capable of terrifying), from terreo.
- (e) -tivus denotes a state resulting from verbal action, as, captivus, captive (i. e. in a state of having been taken), from capiro.
- (f) -tilis and -siliis have the force of Perfect Passive Participles, as, sectilis, cut, from seco; pensilis, bung up, from pendo.

2. Adjectives formed from Substantives.

These express, (a) made of, (b) full of, (c) endowed with, (d) of or belonging to. The last class is by far the most numerous.

- (a) The chief terminations expressing made of are :

- 1. -eus, as, ligneus, wooden, from lignum.
- 2. -nus, as, quernus, oaken, from quercus.

Note. These terminations may, however, express of or belonging to, when the Noun from which they are derived is not a Noun of Matter, as, virgineus, maternus.

(b) The chief terminations expressing full of are :

1. -osus, as, nivosus, full of snow, from nix, nivis.
2. -lentus, as, vinolentus, full of wine, from vinum.

(c) Adjectives signifying endowed with end in -tus, and have the nature of Perfect Passive Participles, as, auratus, gilded, from aurum; auritus, long-eared, from auris; nasutus, long-nosed, from nasus.

(d) The terminations expressing of or belonging to are very numerous. The following are the most common :

1. -ius, as, regius, royal, from rex.
2. -icus, as, Gallicus, Gallic, from Gallus.
3. -lis (or -ris), preceded by a vowel, as, mortalis, mortal, from mors; popularis, popular, from populus; fidelis, faithful, from fides; hostilis, hostile, from hostis.

Note. The termination -ris is the same as -lis in meaning, and seems to be used in order to avoid a repetition of the letter l, as, solaris for solalis.

4. -nus preceded by a vowel, as, montanus, mountain-, from mons; terrenus, of earth, from terra; caninus, canine, from canis.
5. -ter or -tis, as, pedester, pedestrian, from pes; coelstis, heavenly, from coelum.
6. -as and -ensis are usually confined to Adjectives derived from names of Places, as Aquinus, of Aquinum; Atheniensis, Athenian.

3. A few Adjectives are derived from Adverbs and Prepositions, as, diuturnus, lasting, from diu; posterus, next, from post.

The terminations of derived Verbs are given above, § 68.

G.—NOTE ON THE INFINITIVE MOOD.

The translation of 'amare' by the words 'loving,' [old English loven=to love], or 'act of loving,' as well as 'to love,' will render easy of explanation many difficulties connected with the Latin Infinitive.

It must never be forgotten that the Infinitive is a Verb-Noun; and therefore,

- (1) That it fulfils the conditions of a Noun in admitting of Declension and government by Prepositions.
- (2) That it fulfils the conditions of a Verb in taking a Subject, and, if Transitive or Trajective¹, an Object.

I. As a Noun the Infinitive has, by the aid of its Gerunds and Supines, a complete set of Cases, with the exception of the Vocative, e. g.:

- (1) Nominative, as, *Dormire est iucundum, Sleeping, or to sleep, is pleasant*².
- (2) Accusative of the Object, as, Dormire amo, I love to sleep.
- (3) Accusative of Respect, as, Audax omnia perpeti, Bold to endure all things.

Note. The construction of the Infinitive with such Verbs as amo, soleo, possum, dicor, videor, etc., and Adjectives as audax, pertinax, etc., is sometimes called Prolate [pro-ferre] as though it carried on their meaning. Whether this distinction be adopted or not there is no reason why the use of the Infinitive in all these instances should not be considered analogous to that of a Noun in the Accusative Case, fulfilling one of the commonest functions of the Accusative, viz. that of limiting the action of a Verb or the meaning of an Adjective. Whether it is to be regarded as a direct Object or merely an Accusative of Respect will depend upon the degree of Transitive force possessed by the governing Verb.

(4) Accusative after a Verb of motion, which is expressed by the Supine in -um, as, Dormitum eo, I go to sleep.

(5) Accusative after the Prepositions ad, inter, etc., which is expressed by the Gerund in -dum, as, Inter dormiendum, Whilst sleeping.

(6) Genitive, which is expressed by the Gerund in -di, used after Substantives and Adjectives, as, Amor ludendi, The love of playing; Cupidus ludendi, Desirous of playing.

(7) Dative, which is expressed by the Gerund in -do, and is usually a Dative of Advantage or Disadvantage, as, Aqua marina inutilis est bibendo, Sea water is useless for drinking.

(8) Ablative of Instrument, Cause, or Manner, or after a Preposition, which is expressed by the Gerund in -do, as, Cunctando vicimus, We conquered by delaying; De pugnando deliberant, They deliberate about fighting.

(9) Ablative of Respect, which is expressed by the Supine in -u, as, Mirabile dictu, Wonderful to tell.

The declension of the Infinitive¹ is exhibited in the following tabular form:—

NOM. amare, loving, or to love.

ACC. { amare, loving, or to love. [Acc. of Object or Respect after Verbs and Adjectives.]
 amandum, loving. [Used after Prepositions.]
 amatum, to love. [Used after Verbs of Motion.]

GEN. amandi, of loving.

DAT. amando, for loving.

ABL. { amando, from, or by loving. [Ablative of Instrument, etc., or after a Preposition.]
 amatu, in loving. [Ablative of Respect.]

II. As a Verb, the Infinitive may take a Subject, which is put in the Accusative Case, and hence arises the construction known as trouble and difficulty to beginners, principally owing to the fact that we are usually obliged, for want of an exact English equivalent, to translate it by a Substantival sentence introduced by the Conjunction that, and containing a Finite instead of an Infinite Verb, thus differing in every particular from the Latin form; as, Dicit Neronem canere, He says that Nero sings [or *is singing*¹].

The Infinitive can also take an Object, which is put in the same case as that governed by the Finite Verb, as, Audire vocem, To bear a voice; Credere sacerdoti, To believe a priest; Fungi officio, To discharge a duty. The Gerunds do not usually take an Object after them. [See § 76. 33, 34.]

III. The form 'act of loving' will be found of great practical use in Latin composition as a test whenever any difficulty arises as to the employment of an Infinitive. The familiar rule that 'the Infinitive is never used to express a purpose in Latin' is proved by it. 'He comes to see us' could not be 'Venis nos videre' because the literal translation of 'Venis nos videre' is 'He comes the act of seeing us,' which is nonsense. [Those, however, who have studied English Grammar and Analysis before beginning Latin will have learnt that the apparent English Infinitive meaning 'in order to' is in reality an Adverbial phrase. For these it will be enough to state that the Latin Infinitive is never used in this Adverbial sense.] It will also suggest the propriety of the Accusative and Infinitive being used after Verbs of declaring, perceiving, etc. whilst verbs of asking, commanding, advising, striving, etc. take ut with subjunctive. The Infinitive denotes an act, and we can speak of or perceive an act. On the other hand, we can hardly be said to command, advise, or strive, an act. We command some person, or ourselves strive, that an act may take place.

¹ T. K. Arnold says of the Accusative and Infinitive,—' We are not quite without this idiom in English. "I ordered him to be dismissed" = "I ordered that he should be dismissed." "I saw him to be a knave" = "I saw that he was a knave." Such a sentence as "narravit fratrem suum in praelio cecidisse," may be sometimes translated literally, "he declared (or reported) his brother to have fallen in the battle." ' Introduction to Latin Prose Composition, § 2. g.

IV. There is a remarkable use of the Infinitive for the Finite Verb, found most commonly in Historic Narrative, and hence called the Historic Infinitive. It is generally used to describe a number of events happening simultaneously or in rapid succession, as, Sed nec Iugurtha quidem interea quietus erat; circumire, bortari, renovare praelium, et ipse cum delectis tentare omnia; subvenire suis, hostibus dubiis instare; quos firmos cognoverat eminus pugnando retinere, But meantime Jugurtha too was by no means idle; he goes round and exhorts his men, renews the attack and assails every part in person with chosen troops; assisting his own men, charging the enemy when they wavered, and where he knew them to be standing firm, keeping them back by giving battle at a distance.

The Infinitive is also used (principally by the poets) in passages expressing indignation or strong emotion, and has an interjectional force, as, Mene incepto desistere! What! I abandon my design! Tene torquerier! Fancy your being tormented! Compare the English use of the Infinitive in such phrases as, 'To think of your doing this!' &c.

H.—NOTE ON THE LATIN PARTICIPLE.

I. The participle expresses the action of the Verb in an Adjectival form, and is always therefore found in agreement with some Substantive, expressed or understood, which it qualifies. When used only in its Adjectival sense it is a mere epithet, as, Praetervehor Thapsum iacentem, I sail by low-lying Thapsus.

II. But in addition to its attributive (adjectival) force, the Participle may further express notions of Time, Cause, Concession, Purpose, Condition, etc., and in all these cases it represents a whole sentence introduced by a Conjunction, e. g.:—

(1) Time. Hos ego digrediens lacrymis affabar abortis, Them, as I departed, I addressed with rising tears. Here digrediens = quum digredere.

(2) Cause. Nihil affirmo, dubitans plerumque et mihi ipse diffidens, I assert nothing, because I generally doubt and distrust myself. Here dubitans et diffidens = quia dubito et diffido.

(3) Concession. Non statim poenis afficiuntur homines, quotidie delinquentes, Men are not immediately visited with punishments, though they transgress daily. Here delinquentes = quanquam delinquent.

(4) Purpose. Alexander ad Iovem Ammonem pergit, consulturus de origine suâ, Alexander went to Jupiter Ammon, to consult respecting his origin. Here consulturus = ut consuleret.

(5) Condition. Ad caenam vocatus ibo, I will go to supper if I am invited. Here vocatus = si vocatus ero.

III. A Participle may express manner, as, Flumen transeuntes evasérunt, They escaped by crossing the river. Here transeuntes = transeundo.

IV. A Participle is often best translated in English by expanding it into a Relative sentence, as, Epistolam sibi commissam detulit, He delivered the letter which had been entrusted to him.

V. A Participle and Verb may often be elegantly rendered in English by two Finite Verbs united by a Conjunction, as, Castris positis, hostem expectavit, He pitched his camp and awaited the enemy; Milites convocatos ita allocutus est, He summoned his soldiers and thus addressed them.

VI. Participles may often be rendered by Substantives of kindred meaning, as, Ver rediens, The return of spring; Epistolâ statim acceptâ profectus sum, I set out immediately on receipt of the letter.

I.—NOTE ON THE ABLATIVE ABSOLUTE.

I. The Latin Ablative Absolute is exactly equivalent to the construction in English called the Nominative Absolute, where a Noun and a Participle in Agreement with one another, and constituting an Adverbial phrase, are made to do duty for a sentence introduced by a Conjunction, e.g.:—

'His mission being accomplished, he returned home.'

'No one seconding the amendment, the original motion was carried.'

'Gold having fallen in value, the prices of commodities will rise.'

Each of the passages given in italics might have been expressed by a sentence, as, 'Since gold has fallen in value, the prices of commodities will rise.'

II. The Latin Ablative Absolute, like its English equivalent, is an Adverbial phrase, and can be resolved in the same way into sentences, or phrases, expressive of Time, Cause, Condition, Concession, Manner, etc., e. g.:—

Time. Bello confecto, Romam redibit, When the war is finished, he will return to Rome, lit. The war having been finished, be, etc.

Cause. Nullâ coactâ manu, Menapii in sylvas confugiunt, As they had collected no army, the Menapii fled to the woods.

Condition. Hoc facto, tutus eris, If you do this you will be safe.

Concession. Reddito, quod abstulerat, argento, tamen supplicio affectus est, Though he restored the money he had stolen he was punished nevertheless.

Manner. Invidiam vitare paras virtute relictâ? Are you trying to avoid envy by abandoning virtue?

III. Two Substantives or a Substantive and Adjective often constitute an Ablative Absolute, by an ellipse of the Present Participle of the Verb Sum [which is wanting in Latin], as, Me duce, I being your leader, Fratre vivo, My brother being alive. This form is especially frequent in describing the time at which an action took place by mentioning the magistrates in office at the time, e. g. L. Aemilio Paulo, C. Terentio Varrone consulibus ad Cannas pugnatum est, The battle of Cannae was fought in the consulship of Lucius Aemilius Paulus and Caius Terentius Varro.

IV. The Ablative of the Perfect Participle Passive sometimes supplies alone the place of the whole construction of the Ablative Absolute, as, errato, an error having been made, auspicato, the auspices having been taken. In these instances a Substantive of kindred meaning may be understood, as errore errato, i. q. errore facto. Sometimes a phrase or sentence supplies the place of the Substantive, as, Alexander, audito Darium appropinquare, cum exercitu obviam ire constituit, Alexander, having beard that Darius was approaching [lit. Darius's approach having been heard of] resolved to go out against him with his army; Excepto quod non simul esses, caetera laetus, Cheerful in all respects, except that you are not with me.

J.—THE ROMAN CALENDAR.

The Roman Calendar agreed with our own in the number of months, and of the days in each; but their manner of dating was very different.

Each month had three distinctive days, namely:—

The Kalends [Kalendae, Gen. -arum], which fell on the 1st.

The Nones [Nonae, Gen. -arum], which fell on the 5th, usually.

The Ides [Idius, Gen. -uum], which fell on the 13th, usually.

But in March, May, July, and October, the Nones fell on the 7th and the Ides on the 15th.

In dating:—

(1) The 1st, 5th, and 13th were denoted by the Ablatives, Kalendis, Nonis, Idibus, with the name of the month added in agreement, as Kalendis Ianuariis, the 1st of January. But in March, May, July, and October, Nonis and Idibus stood for 7th and 15th respectively.

(2) The day before the Kalends, Nones, or Ides, was denoted by the Adverb pridie, the day before, governing an Accusative Case, as, pridie Kalendas Ianuarias, the 31st of December, pridie Idus Ianuarias, the 12th of January, pridie Idus Martias, the 14th of March.

(3) All other days were denoted by reckoning back from the next ensuing Kalends, Nones, or Ides. The reckoning included not only the day reckoned from but the day reckoned to; thus the 30th of December was called the third not the second day before the Kalends of January. The form for expressing the date thus found is as follows:—

Ante diem tertium Kalendas Ianuarias, the 30th of December.

Ante diem octavum Idus Ianuarias, the 6th of January.

Ante diem octavum Idus Martias, the 8th of March.

Ante diem duodecimorum Kalendas Maias, the 14th of April.

A short form for expressing the above dates is as follows:—

a. d. III. Kal. Ian., the 30th of December.

a. d. VIII. Id. Ian., the 6th of January.

a. d. VIII. Id. Mart., the 8th of March.

a. d. XVIII. Kal. Mai., the 14th of April.

Note 1. The required number of days before any given Kalends, Nones, or Ides, may easily be ascertained on the fingers of the hand. Thus, it is required to find the correct Roman date of the 8th of March, a month in which the Ides fell on the 15th. Beginning with the thumb of the left hand, and calling it 8th, first finger 9th, and so on, we shall find that the 15th will fall on the third finger of the right hand, that is, eight fingers from the beginning. Hence eight is the number required.

Note 2. In leap-year the 24th of February [ante diem sextum Kalendas Martias, or a. d. VI. Kal. Mart.] was reckoned for two consecutive days. Hence this day was called dies bissextus, and leap-year itself annus bissextus.

Note 3. The phrase ‘ante diem,’ or ‘antediem,’ admits of government by Prepositions, as, Supplicationes edictae sunt in antediem quartum et tertium et pridie Idus Novembres, Public thanksgivings were decreed for the 29th, 30th, and 31st of October;

Supplicatio indicta est ex antediem quintum Idus Octobres, A public thanksgiving was decreed, beginning from the 11th of October.

Note 4. The months of July and August were called Quintilis and Sextilis, before the time of the Emperor Augustus.

K.—PRONUNCIATION OF LATIN¹.

ā is pronounced like the a in father.

ă is pronounced like the a in along.

ē is pronounced like the a in pane.

ae } are pronounced like the ay in bay.
oe }

ĕ is pronounced like the e in men.

ī is pronounced like the i in machine.

ĭ is pronounced like the i in pity.

ō is pronounced like the oa in moat.

ŏ is pronounced like the o in cot.

ū is pronounced like the u in rule.

ŭ is pronounced like the u in cut.

au is pronounced like the ow in power.

i preceded by a vowel is properly pronounced like y: thus maior, eius, Troia, cuius [often written major, ejus, Troja, cujus] are pronounced mā-yor, ē-yus, Trō-ya, cū-yus.

c is always pronounced as k.

g is always pronounced as g in get.

s is almost always sharp [as the s of sin]; in a few words where the s comes between two vowels, as rosa, musa, miser, it has a soft sound like z.

¹ These rules are partly taken, in a shortened form, from the Syllabus of Latin pronunciation drawn up in 1873 at the request of the Head Masters of Schools. The extract, being necessarily brief, cannot give more than an approximate idea of the sounds of the Latin letters, and for further information the reader must refer to the work mentioned. [Deighton and Bell, Cambridge; Parker, Oxford.]

The other letters may (for the present) be pronounced as in English.

t is pronounced as in English, except that it never has the sound of sh when followed by io.

cb should be sounded as k followed by b.

bs, bt are sounded as ps, pt, and are often so written, as aps, supter.

L.—EXPLANATION OF CERTAIN TERMS USED BY GRAMMARIANS.

I. General Definitions.

Orthography. The science of correct spelling.

Etymology. The science of the origin and meaning of words.

Syntax. The science of the construction and arrangement of words in sentences.

Prosody. The science of the quantities of syllables.

Accidence. The part of grammar which deals with the parts of speech and their inflections.

II. Alphabet and Parts of Speech.

Uncial letters. Capitals.

Cursive letters. Small letters.

Mutes. The letters c (k, q), g, b; t, d; p, b, f (v).

Nasals. The letters m, n.

Spirants. The letters f, b, j, s, v.

Double Letters. The letters x, z.

Gutturals. The throat sounds, viz. c, g, b, n, q, x.

Dentals. The teeth sounds, viz. d, j, l, n, r, s, t, z.

Labials. The lip sounds, viz. p, b, m, f, v.

Ultima. The last syllable of a word.

Penultima. The last syllable but one.

Antepenultima. The last syllable but two.

III. Nouns.

Parasyllabic. Having the same number of syllables in the Oblique Cases as in the Nominative, i. e. not increasing.

Imparsyllabic. Increasing in the Oblique Cases.

Nouns of Common Gender. Nouns which can be used either as Masculine or Feminine, to suit the sex referred to, as, parens, a parent.

Nouns of Epicene Gender. Certain names of animals having only one Gender, whichever be the sex referred to, as, passer, Masc. a sparrow; vulpes, Fem. a fox.

Nouns of Doubtful Gender. Nouns which are used either Masculine or Feminine, without regard to the sex signified, as, talpa, Masc. or Fem., a mole.

Heteroclite Nouns. Nouns having two or more different forms of Declension, as, elephantus, Gen. -i, Second Declension, elephant, and elephas, Gen. -antis, Third Declension; or having one form of the Nominative and more than one of the Oblique Cases, as, laurus, Gen. lauri or laurūs.

Heterogeneous Nouns. Nouns which have different Gender and different form in the Plural from the Singular, as, Pergāmus, Masc., Pergamus, Pl. Pergama, -orum, Neut.

Carbāsus, Fem., canvas, Pl. carbasa, -orum, Neut.

Coelum, Neut., beaven, Pl. coeli, -orum, Masc.

Monoptotes. Nouns only used in one case, as, noctu, by night.

Diptotes. Nouns only used in two cases, as, Nom. fors, chance, Abl. forte.

Triptotes. Nouns only used in three cases, as, Acc. opem, help, Gen. opis, Abl. ope.

Objective Genitive. A Genitive dependent on a Substantive, and regarded as the Object to which that Substantive is directed, as, amor Dei, love of God, i. e. our love towards God.

Subjective Genitive. A Genitive dependent on a Substantive, and regarded as the Subject from which that Substantive proceeds, as, amor Dei, the love of God, i. e. God's love towards us.

Ethic Dative. A Dative of the Personal Pronouns, sometimes used to denote a general reference to the person mentioned. It admits of many renderings in English, according to the sense of the passage: e. g. Quid mibi Celsus agit? What is my friend Celsus doing? Mibi frigidus horror membra quatit, As for me, a cold shuddering convulses my limbs. An ille mibi liber, cui mulier imperat? Is he whom a woman rules a free man in my estimation? Pulset mibi lictorem, Let me see him strike a lictor.

Locative Case. Such forms as, Romae, at Rome, Tarenti, at Tarentum, which are thought to be remains of an old case specially denoting at a place, and therefore called Locative [locus, a place]. The forms humi, on the ground, domi, at home, belli, at the wars, militiae, on military service, vesperi, in the evening, and ruri, in the country, are explained by reference to this case.

IV. Verbs.

Periphrastic Conjugation. A Conjugation formed by uniting the Future Participle in -rus, or the Gerundive, with the Verb sum, as, amaturus sum, I am about to love.

Circumlocutory Conjugation. Same as Periphrastic.

Clipt Stem. A stem without its vowel character, as mon-, for monE-.

Trajective. A name applied to Verbs or other words governing the Dative Case.

Prolative. A name given to the Infinitive when used to carry on [proferre, prolatum] the construction of a Verb, as, amare possum, I am able to love.

V. Conjunctions, various Classes of.

Affirmative, as, profecto, assuredly.

Consecutive, as, ut, so that; igitur, therefore.

Concessive, as, etsi, although; licet, although.

Causal, as, enim, for; quod, because.

Conditional, as, si, if; nisi, unless.

Comparative, as, quasi, as if.

Final, as, ut, in order that; ne, lest.

Oppositional, as, tamen, nevertheless.

Temporal, as, priusquam, before that; quum, when.

VI. Etymological Figures.

Assimilation. When a consonant changes itself to one which follows it, or to one like that which follows; thus, sub-pono becomes suppono, place under; in-berbis becomes imberbis, beardless.

Aphaerēsis. Cutting off letters from beginning, as, nosco for gnosco.

Syncopē. Taking away from middle, as, periculum for pericūlum.

Apocopē. Cutting off from end, as, dic for dice.

Antithesis. Changing one letter for another, as, būbus for bōbus.

Metathesis. Transposition of a letter or syllable, as, colurnus for corulnus.

Tmesis. Separation of parts of a compound word by the insertion of one or more words between the parts, as, septem subiecta trioni for subiecta septemtrioni.

VII. Syntactical Figures.

Ellipse. Omission of something, e. g. of a Substantive, as, ferina, venison [supply caro]; of a Verb, as, Nam Polydorus ego, For I am Polydorus [supply sum].

Pleonasm. Using more words than are necessary to express the meaning, as, sic ore locutus est, where 'ore' is redundant.

Zeugma. When two words or two clauses have the same Verb, which does not apply equally to both; so that for one of them another Verb (to be gathered from the sense of the passage) must be mentally supplied, as, Inceptoque et sedibus haeret in isdem, He abides by his resolve, and remains seated in the same place.

Asyndēton. Omission of Conjunctions, as, veni, vidi, vici.

Hendiādys. Use of two Substantives instead of Substantive and Adjective to express one object, as, pateris libamus et auro for libamus aureis pateris.

Enallāgē. Use of one word for another, e. g. one part of speech for another, one case for another, use of Singular for Plural, etc.

Hypallāgē. Interchange of cases, as, dare classibus Austros for dare classes Austris.

Prolepsis. The poets sometimes put an Adjective or Participle in agreement with a Substantive, though the quality implied cannot belong to it until the action of the Verb to which the Substantive belongs is completed; as, Scuta latentia condunt, which means, They stow away the shields so that they become bidden, i. e. bide the shields out of sight; where latentia is said to belong to scuta proleptically, that is, by anticipation.

Synēsis. When the Verb agrees not in grammar but in sense with its subject, as, pars in crucem acti sunt.

Anacolūthon. When the latter part of a sentence does not agree in syntax with the former; which sometimes happens when a parenthetical clause has intervened, so that the author has lost sight of the construction with which he set out.

VIII. Prosody.

Foot. A name given to a set of two or more syllables by which lines of Latin poetry are divided.

Scansion. } The distribution of a verse of poetry into its proper Scanning. } feet.

Dactyl. A foot consisting of one long and two short syllables, as, cārmīnā.

Spondee. A foot consisting of two long syllables, as, mēnsās.

Hexameter. (The six-measure verse.) A verse of six feet, the last foot being a Spondee, and the last but one a Dactyl, as,
 Tītýrē | tū pātū|laē rēcū|bāns sūb | tēgmīnē | fāgī||.

Pentameter. (The five-measure verse.) A verse of five feet. It has two divisions, each consisting of two feet and a long syllable, the two long syllables virtually constituting the fifth foot, as,

Sēmpēr ēt | Ȑlīlā|cās || Mātēr Ȑ|māvīt Ȑ|pēs||.

Synaloepha. Elision (or cutting off) of a final vowel before another vowel at the beginning of the following word, as, dīvēr̄s̄ | Ȑxīlīlā for dīvēr̄s̄ Ȑxīlīlā.

Ecthīipsis. Elision of m and its vowel in the same way, as, mōnstr̄ hōrrēnd̄ īnfōrme, etc., for mōnstrūm, hōrrēndūm īnfōrme.

Synaeresis. Contraction of two vowels into one, as, deīndē for dēīndē.

Diaerēsis. Resolution of one vowel into two, or of a diphthong into two vowels, as, Ȑvōlūiss̄ for Ȑevolviss̄, aquāi for aquae.

Caesura. The point in a verse where a word ends, so as to cut [caedo] the foot in two, and the voice pauses a little. In a Hexameter line a Caesura should usually occur in the third foot, as,

TitȐr̄s̄ | tū pātū|Ȑz̄ rēcū|bans, etc.

M.—RULES FOR PARSING AND ANALYSIS.

I. General directions for Parsing. Write down the word to be parsed, and state what part of speech it is. After which,

II. If the word be a Substantive, state of what Declension, from what Nominative Case, and what it makes in the Genitive : add the Gender, Number, and Case of the word, and then,

(1) If it be in the Nominative Case, state whether it is Subject of a Finite Verb [and, if so, of what Finite Verb], as, Hector pugnavit, Hector fought; or whether it is in apposition to any Substantive [and, if so, to what Substantive], as, Hector, Priami filius, pugnavit, Hector, the son of Priam, fought; Croesus erat Lydiae rex, Croesus was king of Lydia.

(2) If Accusative, state whether Accusative of the Object after any Transitive Verb, as, Video Prium, I see Priam; or Accusative of kindred meaning after any Intransitive Verb, as, Duram servit servitatem, He serves a hard slavery; or Accusative of Respect after any Verb or Adjective, as, Tremit artus, He trembles as to his limbs; Latus est bumeros, He is broad as to his shoulders; or, if it be none of these, state whether it is the Subject of an Infinitive Mood, as, Cyrum victurum esse dixit, He said that Cyrus would conquer; or whether it expresses Duration of Time, Motion to a Place, or Measure of Space, as, Quinquaginta annos Romae vixit, He lived fifty years at Rome; Athenas pervenit, He arrived at Athens; Hiberna viginti quinque millia aberant, The winter quarters were twenty-five miles distant; or whether it is in apposition to any other Accusative; or, lastly, whether it is governed by any Preposition, as, Ad portas est, He is at the gates.

(3) If Genitive, state whether it is dependent on any other Substantive, as, Hector Priami filius erat, Hector was the son of Priam; or whether it is governed by any Verb or Adjective, as, Arcadii miserescere regis, Pity the Arcadian king; Divitiarum cupidus est, He is greedy of wealth; or whether Genitive of Place, where [see § 76. 17, and App. N. III. Locative Case].

(4) If Dative, state whether Dative of the Remoter Object after any Verb, or whether governed by any word implying pleasantness, nearness, superiority, or their contraries, as, Marco credit, He believes Marcus; Belgae Germanis proximi sunt, the Belgae are very near the Germans; or whether it is a Dative of Advantage or Disadvantage [as it almost always is when it can be translated in English by the word 'for'], as, Numa virginis Vestae legit, Numa chose virgins for Vesta; or whether it is Dative of the Agent after the Gerundive construction, as, Amandum est tibi, You must love; or whether it is put instead of an Appositional Nominative, as sometimes happens after the Verb sum, as, Haec sunt impedimento nobis, These things are a hindrance [lit. for a hindrance] to us.

(5) If Ablative, state whether it is Ablative of Agent, Instrument, Place whence, Place where, Measure of Space, Point of Time, Price, Cause, Respect, Quality, Material, Manner, or Comparison; or whether it is used absolutely in conjunction with a Participle; or whether it is governed by a Preposition.

Note. If the word be an Adjective used Substantively, begin by stating the fact.

III. If the word be an Adjective, state of how many terminations, give Gender, Number, and Case, and name the Substantive with which it agrees. If the Adjective be of the Comparative or Superlative degree, state the fact, and give the Positive. If it be a Numeral or Pronominal Adjective, begin by stating the fact.

IV. If the word be a Pronoun, parse as for Substantives, if it be a Personal or Reflexive Pronoun. The other Pronouns are parsed like Adjectives, except that the Relative agrees in Gender, Number, and Person, with its Antecedent, or word it refers to, but in Case belongs to its own clause.

V. If the word be a Verb, Participle, Gerund, or Supine, state whether Transitive or Intransitive [if a Deponent Verb, add the word 'Deponent'; if an Anomalous Verb, as, possum, volo, nolo, etc., see p. 80, add the word 'Anomalous'; if an Impersonal Verb, add the word 'Impersonal'; if the Verb sum, add the word 'Auxiliary'], and of what Conjugation; then write down the principal parts of the Verb, i.e. the Pres. Indic. Act., Infin. Pres., Perf. Indic., and the Supine, and then,

(1) If a Finite Verb [i.e. not an Infinitive Mood], give the Voice, Mood, Tense, Person, and Number, and state what Subject or Nominative Case it agrees with.

N. B. If the Verb be Impersonal [i.e. one which in English has the word it for its Subject, apparently], as, iuvat, it delights, interest, it is of importance, taedet, it wearies, etc., the Subject in Latin is either, (a) an Infinitive, as, Currere nos iuvat, It delights us to run, or We delight to run, i.e. currere, the act of running [Subject], iuvat nos, delights us [Verb with Object]; or, (b) a Clause, as, Magni interest ut te videam, It is of great importance that I should see you, i.e. Ut te videam, That I should see you.

[Subject], magni interest, is of great importance [Verb with Genitive of Value]; or, (c) a Noun understood, of kindred meaning with the Verb, as, Taedet me vitae, It wearies me of life, or I am weary of life, i. e. Tedium vitae, Weariness of life [Subject], taedet me, wearies me [Verb with Object].

(2) If an Infinite Verb [i. e. an Infinitive Mood], give the Voice, Mood, and Tense, and state whether it is dependent on any Verb, Participle, or Adjective, as, Audire cupio, I wish to bear; Audax omnia perpeti, Bold to endure all things; or whether it is in Apposition to any other Infinitive or to a Noun, as, Vivere est valere, To live is to be well.

(3) If a Gerund in -dum, state what Preposition it is governed by; if in -di, state upon what Substantive or Adjective it depends; if in -do, state whether Dative or Ablative; if Dative, state to what Noun or Verb it is joined, and if Ablative, state whether of Instrument, Manner, or Cause, and to what Verb it belongs, or whether it is governed by a Preposition.

(4) If a Supine in -um, state what Verb of Motion it follows; if in -u, state what Noun or Adjective it qualifies.

(5) If a Participle, give the Voice and Tense, and then parse the word as an Adjective.

(6) If a Gerundive, parse as for a Participle, omitting Voice and Tense. In the forms amandum est, monendum est, etc., the Gerundive does not agree with any Substantive; therefore, after the word 'Case,' add the words 'Neuter Gerundive Construction, implying necessity.'

Notes on the Verb. (a) If the Verb be Deponent, only the Pres. Indic., Pres. Infin., and Perfect Participle are to be given as the chief parts of the Verb, as, utor, uti, usus.

(b) Sometimes a Finite Verb agrees not with the form but with the sense of its Nominative, as, Pars epulis onerant mensas, Some [lit. a part] load the tables with victuals, where a Plural Verb is put in agreement with a Nominative of Singular Number. In parsing onerant we should say that it agreed in sense with pars, or that it agreed with the plural notion conveyed by pars.

VI. If the word be an Adverb, state what Verb, Adjective, or Adverb it modifies in the sentence; if a Comparative or Superlative, state its Positive.

VII. If the word be a Preposition, state the word it governs. If it be a Preposition governing two cases, state the reason for the case of the Noun it governs in the present instance.

VIII. If the word be a Conjunction, state whether it is Co-ordinative or Subordinative, and mention the words, phrases, or clauses it connects.

IX. If the word be an Interjection, mention whether any Noun depends on it in the Nominative, Accusative, or Dative cases, as, Heu pietas! Alas, the piety! En quatuor aras! Lo, four Altars! Hei mibi! Ab, me!

X. Construction of the Sentence. Besides parsing each word of a sentence separately, mention should be made of any Subordinate clauses in it, i.e. clauses which perform the functions of Substantives, Adjectives, or Adverbs. Thus the Accusative and Infinitive is always a Substantival clause, and therefore performs one of the commonest functions of the Substantive, viz. standing as Subject or Object of a Verb. If the Verb be Impersonal, the Acc. and Inf. is its Subject. (See above, IV. 1. Note a.) If the Verb be a Verb of declaring, perceiving, thinking, knowing, believing, etc., the Acc. and Inf. is its Object, as, Te valere sentit, He perceives that you are well, i. e. Sentit, He perceives [Subject and Verb], te valere, the fact of your being well [Object]. The Conjunction ut, when used not strictly, in its final sense of 'in order that,' nor in its consecutive sense of 'so that,' but loosely, as a connecting particle (like the English word 'that' in such a sentence as 'I am glad that you have come'), introduces a Substantival Sentence standing as Subject to the Verb, e. g. Meā refert ut venias, It is important to me that you come, or Object, as, Imperavit mihi, ut hoc facerem, He commanded me to do this. Ne and quod are similarly used, e. g. Vereor ne hoc facias, I fear that you will do this; Gaudeo quod rediūt, I am glad that he has returned. Again, all Interrogative Sentences introduced by such Particles as qualis, unde, etc. [see Catech. iv. 9. p. 96] may be Substantival Sentences, standing as Subject or Object, e. g. Incertum est quis sit, It is uncertain who he is, i. e. Who he is [Subject] is uncertain [Verb, etc.]; Nescio quis sit, I know not who he is, i. e. I know not [Verb] who he is [Object].

On the other hand, ut and ne meaning in order that and lest, and quod meaning because, introduce Adverbial Sentences expressing the purpose and cause respectively of the action denoted by the Principal Verb. The other Subordinative Conjunctions also, as quam, priusquam, dum, etc., introduce Adverbial Sentences, expressing Time, Cause, Concession, etc.

Sentences introduced by the Relative qui, quae, quod, in its simple sense of who or which [together with such Particles as ubi, unde, etc., when used in a strictly Relative, not Interrogative, sense, i. e. when equivalent to in quo, a quo, etc.], being usually explanatory of some Noun, are Adjectival. But the Relative meaning since, although, etc., introduces an Adverbial Sentence.

XI. Summary of Rules for Subordinate Clauses.

(1) An Accusative and Infinitive is a Substantival Clause. When it occurs, state whether it is Subject or Object of a Verb, or whether it is in Apposition to a Noun.

(2) Clauses introduced by ut, ne, and quod are sometimes Subject or Object of a Verb, or stand in Apposition to a Noun, defining its meaning. When they occur, state the Verbs to which they are Subject or Object, or the Nouns to which they are in Apposition.

(3) Clauses introduced by Interrogative Particles, as cur, qualis, etc., are Substantival if they depend upon a Verb. When such a Clause occurs, state whether it is Subject or Object of the Verb.

Note. Dependency on a Verb is often indicated by a Subjunctive, as, Unde venit [Indic.]? Whence comes he? Nescio unde veniat [Subj.], I know not whence he comes.

(4) Clauses introduced by Subordinative Conjunctions are Adverbial. When they occur, state the Verb (or sometimes Adjective or Adverb) which they modify.

(5) Clauses introduced by the Relative Pronoun qui, quae, quod (or its particles ubi, unde) in its simple sense of who or which, are Adjectival. When such a Clause occurs, state what Noun it qualifies.

XII. Analysis of Sentences. A little practice in parsing, in accordance with the above rules, will enable a learner to resolve complex Latin Sentences into their simple elements without difficulty, by means of the following directions:—

(1) Essential terms of the Sentence. Every Sentence must contain a Subject and a Verb, as, Canes latrant, Dogs bark.

(2) Adjuncts, or accidental terms. Both Subject and Verb may have words, phrases, or clauses added to them to complete their meaning. These may be called the Adjuncts or Accidental terms of the Sentence. The Adjuncts of the Subject are called Attributes, the Adjuncts of the Verb are, (a) the Object, (b) the Complement, (c) the Adverbial.

(3) The Subject. The Subject must be a Noun, or the equivalent of a Noun, as, (a) a Personal Pronoun either expressed in the Sentence or implied in the Verb-ending, (b) an Adjective used Substantively, (c) an Infinitive, or Accusative with Infinitive, (d) a whole Clause introduced by a Conjunction.

(4) The Verb. The Verb in a Sentence must be a Finite Verb, except in Oblique Statements, when it may be an Infinitive.

(5) The Attribute. The Attribute is usually an Adjective, but it may also be a Dependent Genitive, a Noun in Apposition, a Noun governed by a Preposition, or a Relative Clause.

(6) The Object. The Object follows Transitive Verbs. Like the Subject, it must be a Noun or the equivalent of a Noun, and may have Attributes. It is of two kinds, (a) the Nearer Object, i. e. that upon which the action of the Verb falls directly, as, Do librum, I give a book, (b) the Remoter Object, i. e. that upon which the action of the Verb falls indirectly, as, Do librum puerō, I give a book to the boy.

Note. The Remoter Object is usually in the Dative Case. But some Verbs are followed by two Accusatives, of which it is difficult to say which represents the Nearer and which the Remoter Object, as, Docuit me literas. One of these Objects is sometimes an Infinitive Mood, as, Milites proficiſci iubet, or a Clause, as, Hortatur eos, ne animo deficiant.

(7) The Complement. The Complement is a Noun, or Adjective, linked on to the Subject by a Copulative Verb, the sense of which it completes. Also the Noun standing in Apposition to the Direct Object of a Factitive Verb must be considered a Complement, as, Urbem Romam appellavit.

(8) The Adverbial. All words, phrases, or clauses that give circumstantial details respecting the action of the Verb, e.g. as regards the Time when, Place where, Manner in which, Cause why, or Instrument by which, it takes Place are called Adverbials. Most Adverbs, many Ablative Cases, and the Accusative of Respect, belong to this class.

(9) Connectives. Words uniting clauses together are called Connectives. All Coordinative and Subordinative Conjunctions and a few Adverbs belong to this class.

(10) Complex Sentence. A group of Sentences joined together in such a manner that one is Principal (i. e. simply states, asks a question, or commands) and the others Subordinate, explaining various parts of the Principal Sentence, is called a Complex Sentence. Each of the individual sentences of which it consists is called a Clause. In the Analysis write down all Subordinate Clauses as belonging to one or other of the terms of the Principal Clause: afterwards each Subordinate Clause may itself be analysed in detail.

Caution. The Subject, Object, Complement, and Adverbial of a Sentence are determined solely with reference to its Verb. The Noun in the Subject Column must be the Subject of the Verb of the Sentence, and not of any other Verb; the Adverbial in the Adverbial Column must qualify nothing but the Verb of the Sentence; and so with the two other terms. Care must be taken to test the accuracy of an analysis by reference to this rule. It is a very common mistake to set down as Adverbial something which does not really belong to the Verb; e. g. Marcus Gallum fortiter pugnantem occidit, Marcus killed a Gaul who was fighting bravely. Here fortiter is an Adverbial, but it must not be put in the Adverbial Column, because it does not qualify occidit, the Verb of the Sentence, but pugnantem, an Attribute of Gallum. The real analysis is, Marcus [Subject], occidit [Verb], Gallum fortiter pugnantem [Object, with qualified Attribute].

Attributes, on the other hand, are determined with reference to the Nouns they qualify. If an Attribute belongs to a Noun which is Subject, it must be put in the Subject Column with its Noun; if to a Noun, which is Object, it must be put in the Object Column, etc.

Caesar, B. G. vii. 50. Cum acerrimè cominus pugnaretur, hostes loco et numero, nostri virtute confiderent, subito sunt Aedui visi ab latere nostris aperto, quos Caesar ab dextra parte alio ascensu, manus distinendae causâ miserat.

Cic. de Senect. § 22. Tum senex recitavit iudicibus eam fabulam quam proximè scripserat, quae sivitque num illud carmen hominis desipientis esse videretur?

Cic. pro Rosc. Am. § 70. Civitas Atheniensium prudentissima fuisse traditur.

N. B. All words wanting to complete the sense of the Latin Sentence are enclosed in brackets.

Nearer and Remoter Objects are indicated by the letters N and R.

XII. A SERIES OF ENGLISH CLASSICS.

Designed to meet the wants of Students in English Literature: under the superintendence of the Rev. J. S. BREWER, M.A., of Queen's College, Oxford, and Professor of English Literature at King's College, London.

THERE are two dangers to which the student of English Literature is exposed at the outset of his task ;—his reading is apt to be too narrow or too diffuse.

Out of the vast number of authors set before him in books professing to deal with this subject he knows not which to select : he thinks he must read a little of all ; he soon abandons so hopeless an attempt ; he ends by contenting himself with second-hand information ; and professing to study English Literature, he fails to master a single English author. On the other hand, by confining his attention to one or two writers, or to one special period of English Literature, the student narrows his view of it ; he fails to grasp the subject as a whole ; and in so doing misses one of the chief objects of his study.

How may these errors be avoided ? How may minute reading be combined with comprehensiveness of view ?

In the hope of furnishing an answer to these questions the Delegates of the Press, acting upon the advice and experience of Professor Brewer, have determined to issue a series of small volumes, which shall embrace, in a convenient form and at a low price, the general extent of English Literature, as represented in its masterpieces at successive epochs. It is thought that the student, by confining himself, in the first instance, to those authors who are most worthy of his attention, will be saved from the dangers of hasty and indiscriminate reading. By adopting the course thus marked out for him, he will become familiar with the productions of the greatest minds in English Literature ; and should he never be able to pursue the subject beyond the limits here prescribed, he will have laid the foundation of accurate habits of thought and judgment, which cannot fail of being serviceable to him hereafter.

The authors and works selected are such as will best serve to illustrate English Literature in its historical aspect. As 'the eye of history,' without which history cannot be understood, the literature of a nation is the clearest and most intelligible record of its life. Its thoughts and its emotions, its graver and its less serious modes, its progress, or its degeneracy, are told by its best authors in their best words. This view of the subject will suggest the safest rules for the study of it.

With one exception all writers before the Reformation are excluded from the Series. However great may be the value of literature before that epoch, it is not completely national. For it had no common organ of language; it addressed itself to special classes; it dealt mainly with special subjects. Again; of writers who flourished after the Reformation, who were popular in their day, and reflected the manners and sentiments of their age, the larger part by far must be excluded from our list. Common sense tells us that if young persons, who have but a limited time at their disposal, read Marlowe or Greene, Burton, Hakewill or Du Bartas, Shakespeare, Bacon, and Milton will be comparatively neglected.

Keeping, then, to the best authors in each epoch—and here popular estimation is a safe guide—the student will find the following list of writers amply sufficient for his purpose: Chaucer, Spenser, Hooker, Shakespeare, Bacon, Milton, Dryden, Bunyan, Pope, Johnson, Burke, and Cowper. In other words, Chaucer is the exponent of the Middle Ages in England; Spenser of the Reformation and the Tudors; Hooker of the latter years of Elizabeth; Shakespeare and Bacon of the transition from Tudor to Stuart; Milton of Charles I and the Commonwealth; Dryden and Bunyan of the Restoration; Pope of Anne and the House of Hanover; Johnson, Burke, and Cowper of the reign of George III to the close of the last century.

The list could be easily enlarged; the names of Jeremy Taylor, Clarendon, Hobbes, Locke, Swift, Addison, Goldsmith, and others are omitted. But in so wide a field, the difficulty is to keep the series from becoming unwieldy, without diminishing its comprehensiveness. Hereafter, should the plan prove to be useful, some of the masterpieces of the authors just mentioned may be added to the list.

The task of selection is not yet finished. For purposes of education, it would neither be possible, nor, if possible, desirable, to place in the hands of students the whole of the works of the authors we have chosen. We must set before them only the masterpieces of literature, and their studies must be directed, not only to the greatest minds, but to their choicest productions. These are to be read again and again, separately and in combination. Their purport, form, language, bearing on the times, must be minutely studied, till the student begins to recognise the full value of each work both in itself and in its relations to those that go before and those that follow it.

It is especially hoped that this Series may prove useful to Ladies' Schools and Middle Class Schools; in which English Literature must always be a leading subject of instruction.
